SOLONS ASKED TO MAKE ALL FEDERAL SALARIES TAXABLE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today renewed his request that Congress pass legislation removing tax exemption privileges from future government salaries and bonds.

He also requested action before March 15 to bar retroactive federal income levies on state officers and bondholders whose income had been regarded as exempt from federal taxation until recent decisions by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Study Proposal

The president's special message renewed recommendations made last spring. A senate committee already is considering the tax exemption question. Treasury witnesses told the committee yesterday that federal revenues ultimately might be increased by more than $300,000,000 by removal of the tax exemption privilege.

Mr. Roosevelt said that present tax exemption privileges rest not on constitutional requirements but upon judicial decisions which, he pointed out, are now in the process of re-examination by the supreme court.

"A fair and effective progressive income tax and a huge perpetual reserve of tax exempt bonds could not exist side by side," Mr. Roosevelt said. "Those

OIL WELL ACCIDENT RESULTS IN DEATH

Charles C. Beasley, 52, of 610 East Stanford street, Garden Grove, whose right leg was torn off last Thursday afternoon while he was at work in the oil fields at Huntington Beach, died yesterday at 3 p. m. in St. Joseph hospital as result of the injury. He suffered great loss of blood immediately following the accident.

A native of Durango, Colo., Mr. Beasley had lived in California 46 years, in Garden Grove 14 years. An inquest will be held at the Shannon funeral chapel, Orange, tomorrow at 10 a. m. and funeral services will be conducted

Auto Industry To Aid Defense Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(UP)—The automobile industry has "enrolled" in the army's preparedness drive and is ready to use its great resources and factories to help turn out airplanes on a mass production basis in event of "extreme national emergency", it was learned today.

High military authorities, although emphasizing that the aviation industry probably would be able to fill President Roosevelt's air expansion program, said that if war should come soon, automobile plants would be asked to help in producing many plane parts.

The president's program, now before congress, calls for an increase of at least 3000 planes in the army's air strength at a cost of $300,000,000.

Favors Skunks As Defense Weapon

TORONTO, Ont. Jan. 19.—(UP)—Training of skunks for national defense purposes as a means of reducing armaments costs and assuring Canada's safety from invasion was urged by Louis Dillon, Wyckoff college student, in a debate yesterday.

"Line the coast with skunks and Canada would not require any other defense," he urged. Dillon's side won the debate. The subject was: "Resolved: That skunks should be protected by law."

Press Time Bulletins

ANTIOCH, Calif., Jan. 19.—(UP)—The Contra Costa Central Labor Council today threatened to blockade the city of Antioch unless it repeals its anti-picketing ordinance.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 19.—(UP)—Gov. Culbert L. Olson today appointed a new California commission for the International Golden Gate Exposition which is scheduled to open the world's fair on Treasure Island, Feb. 18.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(UP)—Secretary of Navy Claude A. Swanson announced today that the U. S. fleet will arrive in the Guantanamo, Cuba-Gonaives, Haiti, area Jan. 22, preparatory to beginning fleet maneuvers Feb. 12.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(UP)—Mischa Elman, the violinist, has turned over to police a threatening letter he received in connection with his concert tour of 25 cities in aid of Jewish refugees, it became known today.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(UP)—Felix Frankfurter, a house guest today of President Roosevelt at the White House, informed the marshal of the supreme court that he will take the oath as an associate justice, Jan. 30.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(UP)—With many of its passengers suffering from the effects of a violent storm, the Italian liner Vulcania docked today. Ship's officers said the trip was one of the roughest crossings in its memory.

Several persons were injured and a scort or more bruised as the ship was battered by a hurricane that struck it off the Azores on Tuesday.

FILIPINO TO AID IN RAILWAY BOND CASE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19.—(UP)—Affable but tight lipped, Felipe Buencamino, member of the Philippine assembly, arrived aboard the liner President Taft today enroute to New York to testify at a federal investigation into a Philippine railway bond deal.

The deal was climaxed by arrest of William P. Buckner, New York broker, and friend of Hollywood film notables, on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Implicated

Buckner allegedly used Buencamino's name in letters to bondholders implying that the Philippine government would buy the bonds. These letters formed the basis for the charges.

Two federal officials, John C. Walsh, assistant U. S. attorney of New York, and Louis Maged, representative of the Securities and Exchange Commission, met Buencamino today.

Commuters Rap S. F. Train Service

ALAMEDA, Jan. 19.—(UP)—Commuters' protests of electric train service to San Francisco were carried to Sacramento today by City Manager Charles Shwanberg. He will discuss the problem with state officials.

Alameda residents asked restoration of ferry service or some other means of transportation. They charged the new service across the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge lengthened traveling time to San Francisco from Alameda.

The city council in a meeting attended by 250 commuters adopted a resolution demanding immediate restoration of ferries until "adequate transportation service" can be provided.

Court Ruling Results In Death

HONOLULU, Jan. 19.—(UP)—Three persons were dead today in the tragic aftermath to a divorce decree granting custody of Frank Medeiros' four children to his wife, Sarah.

Enraged at the decision, Medeiros first shot and killed his mother-in-law, Christine Pestana, 60, in what police said was the apparent belief he was killing his wife. She was hidden in a locked bedroom with three of her children.

His gun still smoking, Medeiros then shot and killed his brother-in-law, Isaac Waiolama, 48, before sending a bullet into his own brain.

Bourbon Wins Senate Race

REDDING, Cal., Jan. 19.—(UP)—Jesse W. Carter, Democratic Redding city attorney, was elected to fill the state senate seat left vacant by the death of Republican John B. McColl, it was conceded today.

Carter polled 3490 votes against 2816 for his nearest opponent, William B. Menzel, Republican, returns from all but two isolated precincts showed. Two other candidates, Dr. Ernest Dozier and Roscoe Anderson Jr., both Republicans, were far behind.

Carter's selection increased the Democratic minority in the upper house to 18 members, and cut the GOP majority to 22.

McColl was killed a month ago in an automobile accident.

AIR BASE AT GUAM URGED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(UP)—Administration leaders today introduced in the House and Senate a bill authorizing construction of 12 new naval air bases including one at Guam. It was indicated the action regarding Guam was designed as a possible bargaining point with Japan concerning matters in the Western Pacific.

The measure authorizes $65,000,000 in construction but does not appropriate funds to carry out the program. The authorization is general and no specific fund is allotted for the proposed Guam base.

Quotes Lippmann

Indication of possible use of the Guam project as a bargaining point came from the White House where President Roosevelt issued an explicit denial that he had approved a $5,000,000 construction program for Guam.

Instead, the White House referred reporters to a dispatch by Walter Lippmann, newspaper commentator, which it was indicated presented a view point in near accord to that held by Mr. Roosevelt. The Lippmann dispatch proposed that the Guam base be authorized and that negotiations then be undertaken with Japan over questions with which she is in conflict with the United States. He suggested the authorization might prove a valuable bargaining point in obtaining Japanese compliance with U. S. treaty rights.

LABOR GROUP BACKS NEW PENSION PLAN

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 19.—(UP)—A new old age pension plan with the backing of the AFL-controlled California State Federation of Labor was embodied in an assembly bill for presentation today by Ray Williamson, San Francisco Republican.

Williamson's bill provides for pensions of $50 per month with the age limit remaining at 65 years, but permits additional income to bring the total received up to $60 before deductions would be permitted.

More Bills Ready

The pension proposal was in a flood of proposed legislation heaped on the legislative desks. Less than a week remained of the first half session as legislators marked time for the submission of their biennial administration budget, expected Monday or Tuesday.

Many administration sponsored bills are ready for submission, particularly by the state relief administration in regard to self-

Woman Finds She Had Wed Uncle

FITCHBURG, Mass., Jan. 19.—(UP)—Discovery that she had married her uncle won an annulment for Mrs. Batrice B. Brisson, 27, of Leominster.

Probate Judge Henry H. Atwood granted her plea yesterday after she testified that she and Alexander Brisson of Fitchburg, a carnival worker, eloped to Greenville, N. H., and were married Dec. 30, 1937, after a brief courtship.

Her father, Zenophile Brisson, said that he learned of the marriage two weeks later when he read a newspaper story of the marriage. He went to Greenville, verified the details and then returned here to confront his brother.

Long, Bitter Debate Expected As Solons Study Hopkins Nomination

CABINET OFFICIAL REVEALS HUGE GAINS IN U. S. EXPORTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(UP)—Assistant Secretary of State Francis B. Sayre today told the General Federation of Women's Clubs that American exports have approximately doubled under the reciprocal trade agreement program.

Sayre spoke at the golden jubilee meeting of the directors of the federation, attended by 125 delegates from every state.

The United States, he said, lost export trade after the 1929 crash due largely to import restrictions which "the nations of the world erected at the very time they sought to expand their own exports."

The reciprocal trade treaty program recognized that stable world trade must flow in both directions, he said. Trade agreements with 19 countries now account for about 60 per cent of our foreign trade, Sayre said. "Because of the increasing economic interdependence of the modern world, America's stake in world trade has become of greater and greater importance," Sayre said.

"The United States must normally sell abroad about three-fifths of its cotton crop, a fifth of its wheat, two-fifths of its leaf tobacco, a third of its lard, a third of its rice, almost half of its dried fruit as well as enormous quantities of manufactured goods," Sayre said.

"Every loss of a foreign market means reduced American employment, reduced domestic purchasing power, economic dislocation and suffering."

Pair Freed In Mail Fraud Case

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 19.—(UP)—Federal Judge Dave W. Ling today dismissed mail fraud and conspiracy charges against two 13 former officials of the old Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company of California.

Motions for directed verdicts on behalf of Roy S. Hoagland, San Francisco, former loan supervisor of the company, and Allan D. Grant, former assistant secretary, were granted by Judge Ling after the government announced it would not oppose the motions.

Dan McGrath, special assistant to the attorney general, told the court the government would not oppose any motions "as to these two men." Judge Ling immediately dismissed the charges and Hoagland and Grant were permitted their freedom.

Attorneys for Ben R. Meyer, Los Angeles, president of the Union Bank and Trust company, started arguments on their motions.

Asks Report On S. F. Exposition

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 19.—(UP)—Gov. Culbert L. Olson today requested a full report on activities of the state commission for the San Francisco Golden Gate exposition.

The governor's son and secretary, Richard C. Olson, said the move was taken by the governor merely to acquaint himself with that huge state undertaking and was not to be construed as questioning any action of the commission.

Olson asked that he be furnished a financial statement showing money expended; a list of all persons employed, with the character of work and salary of each, and a general report of plans adopted and work of the commission to date.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(UP)—The senate discusses today the qualifications of Harry L. Hopkins as secretary of commerce. The debate was expected to be long and bitter but the vote on whether to confirm his nomination to President Roosevelt's cabinet, was expected to be affirmative, with not more than 30 senators voting in opposition.

The vote may be delayed until tomorrow by the length and number of speeches planned for and against confirmation.

Claim Support

Opposition leaders, basing their opposition on Hopkins' methods as relief administrator, claimed "at least 18" Republican and "five or six" conservative Democrat votes.

It was learned that two attempts had been made to put the entire Republican membership on record against Hopkins. An "anti-Hopkins" Republican luncheon given by Sen. John G. Townsend, jr., of Delaware, was disrupted when Sen. Lynn J. Frazier, of North Dakota, praised Hopkins as an able man. Frazier's colleague, Sen. Gerald P. Nye, also announced his intention of voting for confirmation.

Later, 18 of the 23 senate Republicans attended a conference at which various presidential nominations were discussed. General

Germans Void Jewish Diplomas

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—(UP)—The government decreed today that the diplomas of Jewish dentists, veterinarians and druggists were to be voided, effective Jan. 31. It was assumed that those effected would no longer be qualified as professional graduates.

It was decreed also that Jewish nurses and assistants should be permitted henceforth to practice only among Jews or in Jewish institutions.

The ministry of interior, in issuing the decree, ruled that Jewish dentists might be exempted from the ban on practice, but that even if the ban were removed they could practice only among Jews.

Postoffice Is Burglarized

HOLLISTER, Jan. 19.—(UP)—Residents of Paicines, 16 miles south of here, today contrasted the only two postoffice robberies in the history of the village.

Yesterday Postmaster A. A. Dawson opened his office and discovered that $40 in cash was missing. There was no clue to the robbers.

In 1874 Tiburcio Vasquez led a band of men who raided the Paicines store and postoffice. Three men were killed in a gun battle. Vasquez was captured and hanged.

The store is now owned by Walter P. Murphy, Chicago industrialist and San Benito county rancher.

PROTEST AID TO CHINESE

TOKYO, Jan. 19.—(UP)—Japanese navy sources today denounced American proposals to fortify Guam as putting "a gun against a neighbor's door" and charged that the United States, Great Britain, France and Soviet Russia were prolonging the war in China by aiding Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

The navy issued a vigorously worded pamphlet intended to promote popular support of its navy building demands to be made when the budget is presented to the diet next month.

The statement declared that the Japanese navy's command of the Western Pacific has prevented the four powers from taking forceful or military action in China and confined their efforts to shipping war supplies.

Hinder Program

Hindrance to Japan's aim of building a "new order" in the Orient will come from the seas, the statement said. It pointed to a United States building program totaling 2,300,000 tons, a British program of 2,000,000 tons and to the fact that the Soviet is the world's strongest submarine power, having 110 underships, of which 69 are now in far eastern waters.

"We do not understand the necessity for the expansion of the United States navy," the spokesman said. "From the viewpoint of a navy expert the establishment of submarine and aviation bases a great distance from the American mainland could mean only the establishment of bases for long distance attacks upon Japan."

"Defensive" Navy

The spokesman said that the Japanese navy was unable to conduct a long distance offensive, and was able only to defend the Western Pacific.

Fortification of the Western Pacific, he said, would benefit the United States strategically because the Japanese mandated islands were not fortified.

Relief Chiseler Starts Jail Term

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 19.—(UP)—A man whom relief officials once presumed to be "dead" was very much alive today and in the county jail while authorities sought his wife for relief "chiseling."

He was Isaac Webb, 57-year-old laborer, who assertedly was working and drawing wages at the same time his family was receiving relief checks amounting to $27.60 every two weeks. His son also was working, relief authorities said.

Mrs. Lillie Webb, the wife, swore her husband was dead and that she had no means of support, officials said.

The Webbs pleaded guilty several months ago and were sentenced to six months in jail, but the sentence was suspended on condition they repay the $238 obtained through assertedly falsified statements.

Peach Growers Organize

MARYSVILLE, Cal., Jan. 19.—(UP)—Organization of the California Fruit Factors, a non-profit group with temporary headquarters in San Francisco, was announced today by Sacramento valley peach growers.

The new organization also announced it seeks an $18,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan to finance packing for the 1939 season. Donald Bull of Marysville, president of the California Canning Peach Association, and W. J. Edinger, manager of the association, were reported en route to Washington to confer with RFC officials.

The organization's charter provides equal grower-canner representation on its board of directors and it was explained, will represent growers, canners and financial institutions.

CONSERVATION PARLEY LOOMS

Representatives of the Orange County Agricultural Conservation association and officials of the San Diego county group will hold a conference in San Diego January 23 and 24, it was announced today by John H. Burnett, secretary of the Orange county association.

The new policy of decentralization, placing increased responsibility on farmer committees for operation of the farm program in 1939, as outlined at recent regional conferences by N. E. Dodd, director of the western division of the agricultural adjustment administration, will be outlined at the San Diego sessions.

Variety of Subjects

Agricultural conditions leading up to the present program, previous legislation, substitute programs for the AAA, the agricultural administration act of 1938 and provisions of the 1939 agricultural and range programs as they apply to California will be discussed, Burnett said.

The conference was called by W. B. Parker, of Berkeley, executive officer of the California Agricultural Conservation committee.

Robert Wilson, state committee man, and E. R. Spoor, district supervisor, will be present, Burnett said. Orange county committee men include John Newman, Tustin; Walter R. Schmid, Garden Grove; Albert S. Walker, Yorba Linda; E. F. Marks, Santa Ana; and John Murdy jr., Smeltzer. Field supervisors are A. E. Christensen, Anaheim; John McLeod, Anaheim; Howard W. Crook, Placentia; J. Allen Stirrat, Anaheim; Donald Hill, La Habra and Clarence E. McFadden, San Juan Capistrano.

Willard Group Guests At Lunch

Executive board members and committee chairmen of the Willard P. T. A. were luncheon guests of their president, Mrs. W. O. Mendenhall, in her new home at 1210 North Ross street, Wednesday. Lunch was served buffet style from the daintily spread table where Mrs. Russell Adkinson presided at the coffee urn. A business meeting was conducted during the afternoon. Those members in attendance included the Mesdames Rose Woodward, Alfred H. Bradley, Harold Smith, Vanche Plumb, Karl Loyd, W. B. Gibson, H. J. Becker, G. G. Platt, N. E. Wilson, Russell Adkinson, D. E. Winterbourne and the hostess, Mrs. Mendenhall.

Dr. Myers To Address Group

Dr. Garry Cleveland Myers of Western Reserve university, who is conducting federal forum meetings in the county, will address members of the Willard Parent-Teacher association next Tuesday afternoon at the regular association meeting to be held in the school building at 2:30 o'clock. The topic for discussion will be "Habits for Emotional Stability." A musical program given by the Willard ninth grade Girls' Glee club, directed by Miss Helen Glancy, and a brief business meeting will complete the program for the afternoon. Room mothers will be special guests for the day.

The western hemisphere now obtains most of its radium from Canada, from a deposit on the shores of Great Bear lake.

MAHER TELLS HOW TRUCK LINE OWNERS OF AREA TOOK ACTION

The story behind the recent railroad commission order for reduction of rates on about 600 commodities in intrastate commerce was told today by E. A. Maher, of Anaheim, executive secretary of the Automotive Council of Orange county, who revealed that the local organization was instrumental in obtaining the reduction.

Approximately 30 truck line owners of the county belong to the Automotive Council, a non-profit cooperation organization formed several years ago to seek equitable legislation, rates, rules and regulations.

Showed Opposition

The council, from the first, opposed the scale of freight rates established by the railroad commission October 11, 1937, as being too high generally for truck transportation, said Maher, but the railroad commission decided to leave the schedule undisturbed until data could be gathered for a state-wide rate order.

Hearings on "All California" rates were started in November, 1937, in San Francisco, where Maher said he introduced a cost study of trucking operations of the Orange county type, using records of the Valencia Truck company, Santa Ana. Many other exhibits were presented, the majority purported to show higher rates, said Maher.

Stresses Efficiency

Maher represented the county's truck interests before the commission on June 10 last October 25, stressing the efficiency of Orange county operators and defending the representative character of his cost study, as opposed to the higher figures of other groups.

The commission's opinion, Maher pointed out, contained reference to Orange county's stand for lower rates, as opposed to argument for higher rates from other quarters. The railroad commission set a rate of seven cents per 100 pounds for the same class of commodities in the same weight bracket and for the same distance. The spread between the actual cost in Maher's study and the commission's rate represents only a very nominal interest on investment, said Maher.

The new rates, effective May 16, decrease 20 to 30 per cent as compared to the present scales for truckload rates.

"We feel that the Automotive Council should be congratulated on the close parallel between its cost study and the railroad commission's findings, and also for its effort toward keeping transportation costs down to a minimum," said Maher.

RISE OF KIWANIS TRACED IN SPEECH

Tracing the rise of the Kiwanis club from its formative period in 1915 through to the accepted founding of the group in 1924, District Governor Harry Lane of San Gabriel yesterday told Kiwanians that friendship, character, citizenship and youth service were the four posts on which the structure of the club are built.

In the early days of the club in Detroit, the motto of the Kiwanis club was "We Trade" and the organization was designed to stimulate business and profit for its members, Lane said.

Motto is Changed

"Because of its mercenary basis the club failed to get the response necessary for growth and continued existence and in recognition of the fact, the motto and ideals of the club were changed to 'We Build', at a convention in Denver, 1924. Since that time the organization has grown steadily in usefulness to the communities it serves and at the present time has a membership of more than 100,000," he said.

Clyde Rowland, chairman of the Kiwanis education committee was in charge of the meeting and introduced the speaker. Lyle Mitchell presided. The Rev. Albert E. Kelly read a message on the anniversary of the reorganization of the club from H. G. Hatfield, international president.

MILITARY BALL DATE IS SET

Plans for the 11th annual Military Ball, annually sponsored by a committee of prominent citizens under the auspices of Jack Fisher chapter, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, are under way with the announcement that Monday, February 20th has been selected as the date for this year's ball.

"This year's ball will be held at the Rendezvous ballroom, Balboa, whose ample and excellent facilities will add greatly to the enjoyment of this most colorful occasion, eagerly anticipated each year by the dance lovers throughout the county," one official said.

Pickard In Charge

Harry S. Pickard, past commander of the host organization, has again been selected to head the committee in charge of arrangements and will have a county wide citizens committee to assure the success of this undertaking. In addition a number of the DAV members will assist the citizens committee. The women's auxiliary will again have charge of local ticket sales.

"It will be the ambition of the committee to surpass all previous efforts, assuring all patrons in excellent evening's entertainment," Pickard said.

'PROFIT' TEST RETURNS GOOD

The contributions in the contest sponsored by the "Sharing the Comforts of Life" column are coming in in good shape, it was announced today. A few of the contributors have failed, however, to specify whether they were under 22 or over 21.

The sponsor of the column today reminded the readers that the contest continues to and including Tuesday, January 24. "It thus behooves those people to remember the date so that their manuscripts are in the office of the newspaper running the column before that date," the sponsor said.

Sees Help In Contest

One contributor said, "I have no idea of winning any prize with this—but wish you to know that we like the way you run your editorial page and think much good will come from this free discussion."

"It might be well again to remind those of high school or college age that they are not competing with older people but only people of their own age," the sponsor explained. There seems to be more contributors in the older class than the younger class so that those of the younger class naturally would have a better chance to win because there will be fewer entries inasmuch as there are many more people conversant with the subject who are over 21 than there are those who are under 22. Remember the closing date, January 24."

HAND IS INJURED

Charles William O'Neal, garage worker, 1415½ West First, was given first aid by Sergeant J. F. McWilliams and Officer Cornish Roehm of Santa Ana police today for a broken bone in his left hand. The accident occurred on the job this morning. O'Neal was sent to a doctor for further treatment.

HELD IN THEFT

Charged with committing petty theft, Tice Newton Warfield, 36, 1912 Kilson drive, was arrested last evening by Officer Herman Stahl on a bench warrant and booked at county jail. Bail was fixed at $100.

Boosters Defeat Civil Service Proposal By Vote Of 103 To 12

In a referendum conducted among 127 members of the Santa Ana chamber of commerce to determine the attitude of the group concerning civil service for city employees 103 voted against civil service, 12 balloted in favor of submitting the measure to a vote of the people and 12 were in favor of civil service for all city employees.

Survey Is Checked
This was the announcement today of President George A. Parker, following a check of the survey that was instituted on January 9.

At that time a ballot presenting the three possible attitudes was submitted to the membership along with arguments for and against civil service.

Prepared By Individual
The arguments for and against were prepared by individual members who previously had indicated their attitude concerning the move.

Purpose of the referendum was to present a cross-section of the opinion of Santa Ana business men on the question to the Santa Ana city council before any action was taken on a proposed ordinance granting civil service to city employees.

Five boulevard stop violators, a signal jumper and two speeders pleaded guilty before City Judge J. G. Mitchell yesterday and were fined. The boulevard stop violators, fined $5 each, were George Stebbins, Santa Ana; Arthur Arroyo, Westminster; Tom Henning, Placentia; William D. Jenkins, Route 1, Orange; and Jesus Murrillo, Anaheim; Gus Busch, Orange, agreed to work out a $5 fine for driving through a stop signal, and Marie Hammond, Ontario, and Neal McKee, Santa Ana, were fined $8 and $6, respectively, for speeding.

Margaret Robinson Klassen, 21, of 120 Sixth street, Huntington Beach, was booked at the county jail last night on charges of speeding in Huene, Ventura county, and failure to appear there for a court hearing. Bail was fixed at $10.

Eduardo Garcia, 22, Placentia, was booked yesterday afternoon at county jail on a charge of violating immigration laws.

Harry Brokate, 30, 128 Twenty-seventh street, Newport Beach, last night began a 30-day term in county jail, result of a petty theft conviction.

Driving drunk and drunk charges were filed against Clarence Humphrey, 38, Ventura, when he was arrested at 1:35 a. m. today in San Juan Capistrano township by Highway Patrol Officers Ernest Sawyer and John Turton.

City, County News In Brief

Invitation was issued today to members of the Santa Ana chamber of commerce to attend the annual dinner of the Newport-Balboa chamber of commerce to be held at the Newport Harbor Yacht club on the evening of Jan. 26. Walter S. Spicer, president of the coast group, issued the invitation and will be in charge of the program.

John Criddle, draftsman in the Santa Ana city engineer's office will be the speaker at the regular meeting of the Santa Ana Realty board tomorrow noon at the Rosemore cafe and will report on interpretations of the new zoning ordinance in the city. Ray Goodcell will preside at the meeting.

The 29th National Orange Show to be staged in San Bernardino in 1939 will formally open to the public on March 16, it was announced today by W. C. Shay, president of the event, and will continue for 10 days. Committees have been appointed and plans are now being completed to offer a show of beauty and interest that will surpass the successful 1938 exhibition.

On recommendation of Welfare Director Thomas Douglas, the county supervisors yesterday promoted Alma Carlson to head the indigent division as supervising social worker, at a salary of $140 per month; and elevated Kenneth Williamson to similar rank, for his work as special investigator in the department. Betty Niedergall's classification was changed from stenographer-clerk to Case Aid, Grade C, at no change of salary.

TWO INJURED IN SIX MISHAPS IN COUNTY AND CITY AREAS

Two persons were hurt in six accidents in Orange county yesterday and today, according to reports to police authorities.

HEAR TALKS ON TOMATO PRICES

Tomato growers of Orange county will insist on minimum prices of $13 per ton for surplus market tomatoes, $15 per ton for regular canning tomatoes and $17 per ton for the Italian variety, it was decided at a meeting at the Farm Bureau hall last night, when the canning situation for 1939 was discussed.

According to a report by Thomas A. Robertson, chairman of the vegetable growers' department of the California Farm Bureau federation, conditions warrant better prices to growers from canneries. Robertson said that canning tomato stocks now are moving freely at increased prices and that retail prices of tomato products have recently increased from 10 to 20 per cent.

Ross E. Crane, assistant farm advisor, showed figures on 265 acres of Italian variety tomatoes for the past year, the average yield being 4.66 tons, with the average income being $65 per acre and the cost from $90 to $125 per acre. Crane said that cost of production runs $15 per ton in Orange county and often goes higher.

Due to decreased returns to growers, the average dropped from 5883 acres in 1935 to 3740 acres in 1938, Crane reported. John H. Burnett, secretary of the Orange County Agricultural Conservation association, told growers of arrangements in effect for benefit payments to growers of tomatoes who do not increase their acreage over the average of 1936 and 1937. A. A. Fischer, of Anaheim, representative from Orange county on a committee working to stabilize tomato prices, presided at the meeting and outlined the work of the group.

BOARD TERM EXPIRES

Secretary Jules Markel, of the county planning commission, yesterday notified the board of supervisors that the term of Oliver L. Halsell, member from Santa Ana, will expire January 28. The board will be called upon to fill the vacancy.

TWO DIVORCES ASKED

Divorce complaints were filed today in superior court by Mrs. Helen Maples, Huntington Beach cafe owner, who charged Horace B. Maples with cruelty, and by Mrs. Jewel Land, who filed similar charges against Hugh Land.

As the result of a crash involving a car driven by Clarence R. Humphrey, 37, of Ventura, and a truck and trailer operated by George H. Kittrell, 22, of San Diego, Humphrey was arrested on a charge of drunk driving. He was taken to the Orange County hospital for treatment of minor injuries and then lodged in the county jail.

Five In Santa Ana
The accident occurred on 101 highway a mile south of San Juan creek.

Five accidents occurred in Santa Ana yesterday and early today with one person reported injured in one of them. Bob Hueskamp, 14, 406 East Bishop, suffered badly bruised left leg at 4:20 p. m. yesterday when his bicycle and a car driven by G. W. Johnson, 55, 113 East 10th street, collided.

At 3 a. m. today, Minor Cox, 201 Orange avenue, reported to police that an unknown motorist driving a car with flat tire crashed into a parked car registered to L. C. Reese, Lancaster. The accident occurred at Walnut and Orange.

Officer Ernest Zimmerman was in front of county jail yesterday when he witnessed a collision between cars operated by Bob Stimpel, Orange, and Theodore Carrington, 1201 North Sycamore, Santa Ana. Stimpel was ticketed for asserted failure to give the right-of-way and for driving without license. The accident occurred at Sixth and Sycamore.

As F. L. Gaitton, 66, 1821½ West First, attempted to make a U-turn last evening at First and Franklin, his car and one driven by Mabel Hawthorne, 38, Inglewood, collided with only property damage resulting.

CARLISLE AND HOILES DEBATE ON ISSUES OF TOWNSEND PLAN

Levi C. Carlisle, Townsend party leader, and R. C. Hoiles, publisher of The Register, appeared before an audience that jammed Lathrop auditorium last evening to debate the question: "Resolved, that the Townsend plan is just a legalized form of stealing and robbery."

There were no judges, and no decision given, Attorney James B. Tucker presiding over the debate, in which Hoiles took the affirmative and Carlisle the negative.

Betts Eager For Tilt
Prospect of another debate developed near the close when Carlisle hurled a challenge broadcast for anyone to debate the Townsend plan with him, and Lew Betts of Tustin leaped to his feet to accept "right now". Betts, apparently eager to take up the debate at once, was forced to wait for a date to be arranged.

The Carlisle-Hoiles tilt was conducted amid considerable applause and laughter, good humor prevailing, and at the close, Carlisle, saying that he "really had come to love Mr. Hoiles" during their association, called upon the Townsend followers present to "give him a hand" for coming before them with his argument against their cause. The "hand" was given with a will.

Points Are Outlined
Points made by the debaters were: Hoiles: Prosperity depends upon non-interference with exchange of services, which is the outlet for production of wealth. A tax system which takes from one group and gives to another, such as the Townsend plan, interferes with exchange of services. Coercion in any form of government prevents a person from getting the fruit of his acts and hurts prosperity. Production, per worker, decreases contributing toward something in which he does not believe is a legalized form of stealing. Coercion which denies a person the fruit of his acts is contrary to the essence of Democracy and Christianity.

Carlisle's Points
Carlisle's points were, in part: The Townsend plan, if adopted, would not touch the national income, because it would, by stimulating business and production and employment, produce new wealth and actually increase the national income.

Recovery would be effected through the rapid circulation of money, the medium of exchange in the production of wealth. The Townsend annuitants would not be getting something for nothing. They would be paid a commission for performing a service to the country—that of circulating money and protecting the market.

Extend To All
The federal government already uses the plan's fundamentals in its civil service retirement plan, and the Townsend plan merely would extend it to all citizens.

The Townsend plan would tax every citizen alike, and the rich, who now pay only a fraction of one per cent of income as a tax, would pay the same as the poor, who now are taxed from 29 to 35 per cent of their incomes. That is why rich opponents of the Townsend plan do not want it adopted.

"Gets Far More"
A tax only on consumption is getting something for nothing, so far as the rich man is concerned, for he eats about the same quantity of food, and consumes about the same amount of clothing, as the poor man, but gets far more.

The Townsend plan would obviate need of relief and charity, charitable institutions, hospitals and old folks homes, the Com-

ANAHEIM CITRUS GROUP IN SESSION

ANAHEIM, Jan. 19.—A total of more than 1000 cars were handled by the Anaheim Citrus Fruit Association, according to figures released at the annual meeting of the growers Tuesday.

Secretary-Manager Glenn A. Hipes, in his annual report of business commented on problems encountered in regard to excess production which necessitated considerable elimination of fruit through various channels. He declared that such diversion of a portion of the crop enabled the growers to get the highest possible returns.

The value of proration was dwelt upon at some length by Mr. Hipes.

Export shipments of the association amounted to 12 per cent of the total packed fruit. Government purchases and juice sales were large factors in absorbing an additional portion of the record crop, Hipes explained.

L. P. Halderman was elected president for the coming year, succeeding D. L. Harpster. Others elected were Newel C. Christensen, vice president; Mr. Hipes, secretary-manager; and Burt F. Zeiser, assistant secretary.

F. F. Heydenfeldt, manager of the Growers Service department of the California Fruit Growers Exchange spoke of the confusion in the minds of growers about marketing, because so many different theories were being advanced. "There is no mystery about marketing oranges, any more than there is about growing them or preparing them for market," he stated.

"The job is to put ever increasing crops into consumption at a living return to the grower, and the Exchange is doing everything it knows about to this end," said Heydenfeldt.

"The Exchange uses all methods of sales, having wide distribution in domestic and foreign markets, and is always willing to compare its marketing problems and its results for the growers with any of its critical competitors," Heydenfeldt told the growers.

POMONA COLLEGE VIOLINIST TO APPEAR IN S. A. CONCERT

Coming to Santa Ana audiences with a background of fine musical achievements both in Chicago and on the Pacific Coast, Kenneth Fiske, head of the violin department at Pomona College, will be guest artist next Tuesday night at the season's opening concert of Cecilia Singers in the High school auditorium.

Cecilian Singers have prepared a fine program of chorus numbers which will be presented under direction of Mary Batten Steffenson (Mrs. J. Leslie Steffenson) as the first concert since she was chosen as chorus director.

One of the most interesting things about their choice of song numbers, is the inclusion of three compositions of Joseph W. Clokey, under whom Mrs. Steffenson studied pipe organ and orchestration at Pomona College.

The composer will be in the audience Tuesday night, and will hear the chorus sing "A Bird Flew," "The Last Night" and "Snow Legend," all of his own composition. Other chorus numbers will include "To the Spirit of Music" (Stephens), Tschakowsky's "Legende," "Ave Maria" by Bach-Gounod and others of similar beauty.

For his violin selections, Kenneth Fiske has announced a diversified group which will include "La Gitana" (Kreisler), "Minuet Olden Style" (Hocke), "Gavotte in E major" (Bach-Kreisler), "Jota" (De Falla Kochanski), Cyril Scott's "Lullaby" and "Hejre Kat" (Hubay).

His wife, Gloria Burch Fiske, a former artist-pupil at the conservatory and soloist with Chicago Symphony orchestra, will be his accompanist Tuesday night. The concert will begin at 8:15 o'clock.

Kenneth J. Fiske, head of the violin department at Pomona College, will appear as guest artist Tuesday night, January 24 at the first concert of the season of Cecilia Singers. The program will be given in Santa Ana High school auditorium.

FDR'S SON ANSWERS CRITICS IN TAKING OVER NEW OFFICE

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 19.—(UP)—James Roosevelt, the President's eldest son, undertook today his full time motion picture duties. He was flying to New York for a month study of distribution in the offices of Samuel Goldwyn, Inc., of which he is vice president.

The film industry welcomed a young Roosevelt with a luncheon yesterday. When it came his turn to speak, he referred to criticism that he might be valuable to the movies because of his political connections.

Life-Time Job
"Here and now I lay these ghosts," he said. "Believe me, the term of my association with Mr. Goldwyn and the industry, if I can help it, will not be measured by days or months, but by years and many of them."

"To you gentlemen, as well as my family and myself, I owe the duty and obligation of making sure that no one can honestly or honorably ever connect my association with you to the industry troubles with the federal government. . . I would not even mention the matter here except that."

Defends Jimmy
The luncheon was given by J. F. T. O'Connor, former comptroller of currency, and included Los Angeles and Hollywood business and motion picture leaders. Louis B. Mayer, head of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, congratulated Goldwyn on employing young Roosevelt and said:

"What are the children of a President to do? If they do nothing they are criticized and if they get out and make every day and every hour count, they also are criticized. Jimmy Roosevelt said in motion pictures an industry to which he wanted to devote his life, and he has a perfect right to take a job with Goldwyn."

Bases provided for in the measure are all on the priority list of the special navy board headed by Admiral A. J. Hepburn. They would be located at:

Kaneohe bay, Midway Island, Wake Island, Johnston Island, Palmyra Island, Kodiak, Alaska; Sitka, Alaska; San Juan, P. R.; Pensacola, Fla.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and Guam.

Vinson said that although no specific figure was included for Guam, the navy wanted $5,000,000 to dredge the harbor, build breakwaters, close an open roadstead, and construct buildings necessary for air and submarine bases, including hangars, shops and barracks.

The bill provided that the bases be built "at a cost not to exceed $65,000,000, except as may be otherwise authorized by law, toward accomplishing the recommendations made by the (Hepburn) board."

Vinson said the naval affairs committee would begin hearings Jan. 25, with Leahy and Hepburn as first witnesses.

Vinson said the navy department informed him that it desired to spend $5,000,000 on Guam as follows:

To Limit Profit
During 1930, $1,000,000 for dredging the harbor; $2,148,000 in 1941 for building a breakwater and closing an open roadstead; $1,852,000 in 1942 for building necessary air and submarine bases, hangars, shops, and barracks.

"In view of the fact that the government is going to buy a large number of planes," Vinson said, "we feel we should have joint legislation to protect the army and navy both as to cost and efficiency of the planes."

He said he would advocate retention of the present 10 per cent profit limitation on manufacturers.

Battle Looms
An undercurrent of opposition to the Guam proposal was evident in Congress and discussion was heard of a move to attach a rider to the navy bill which would grant the Philippine Islands immediate independence instead of in 1946.

This maneuver would be designed to checkmate the Guam fortifications since naval strategists believe a Guam base would be of little value without the Philippines. This proposal was being discussed, it was understood by Sens. Robert Reynolds, D. N. C., and Gerald P. Nye, R., N. D.

With Congress devoting more and more time to consideration of defense problems and foreign affairs, the Senate foreign relations committee decided on an indefinite postponement of scheduled hearings to consider neutrality legislation and proposals for its repeal or revision.

JAIL TERM SUSPENDED
William Gordon McInnes, 21, Santa Ana, was given a one-year suspended county jail term today on a non-support conviction and placed on probation for two years by Justice Howard C. Cameron in Santa Ana justice court. The suspended sentence was given on condition McInnes pay $15 monthly beginning February 15, for support of his child.

KIDNAPER ADMITS ASSAULTING TRIO

LA GRANDE, Ore., Jan. 19.—(UP)—Police questioned today a young married government employee who admitted kidnapping and assaulting three small children near Wallawa. He said that he had committed a similar offense against two other children previously.

He was Hudson Dodd White, 25, a field worker for the soil conservation authority. His father, Solon T. White, is federal coordinator of the authority for Oregon.

Suffer Shock
State police arrested White at Enterprise, near Wallawa, and transferred him here in the adjoining county. They quoted him as saying that he picked up the three children in his automobile Monday as they left school, and instead of taking them home, as he promised, drove 12 miles to an abandoned sawmill in the mountains and made them remove their clothing.

There were two girls, one seven, the other nine. The third child was a boy, seven. Officers said they apparently were "not badly hurt" but awaited a medical report. In addition to shock, the children were suffering from exposure. It was icy cold and they were on snow covered ground for nearly an hour. They were threatened with being left to freeze in the lonely mountain area until they promised to say nothing of the assault. Then the abductor drove them back near their homes and let them out.

RULES TO BE RECEIVED HERE SEE SPEED OF COOPERATION IN WORLD-WIDE PHOTO CONTEST

Amateur photographers from all over the world are competing for prizes in the Y. M. C. A. international photograph contest, according to Ralph Smedley, secretary of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. Smedley expects to receive the contest rules shortly.

The first entry received in the contest was entitled "Batter Up" and was taken at the Y.M.C.A. camp at Allah, Prescott, Ariz., by Barry Goldwater.

The contest is being conducted in connection with the Y.M.C.A. Building in the World's fair, New York City, erected by the New York City association. Prize winning photographs in five divisions, interpreting the life of young people around the world—at home, at work, at play, in community life and at worship will be displayed in a special exhibit in the building.

Photographs have been received at headquarters of the Y.M.C.A. in New York, from abroad as well as from various parts of the United States.

Iris Club Holds Meeting

LA HABRA, Jan. 19.—Mrs. H. R. Phillips entertained the Iris club members this week at her home on East Florence avenue. A dessert luncheon was served and spring flowers used for decoration. Green was the color theme for the luncheon. Sewing and visiting occupied the guests during the afternoon.

Attending were Mrs. E. E. Rathbone, Mrs. A. C. Schroeder, Mrs. P. B. Erwin, Mrs. S. E. Medland, Mrs. C. E. Levins, Mrs. Frank Newman, Mrs. Riley Blanton and Mrs. Burt Conley.

FOR CHILDREN'S SNIFFLES

SPARE your child much of the misery of sniffing, sneezing, and blowing (due to colds) by doing one simple thing. Insert a little Mentholatum in his nostrils. This soothing ointment will check sniffing and sneezing. It will help open his nostrils, enabling him to breathe more freely. Also rub Mentholatum on his chest, back, and neck tonight. This will stimulate circulation. The vapors arising from this body application will also be inhaled, thus increasing the soothing effect in the air passages. You'll be glad to see how much more comfortable he feels.

"UP-GRADE" MOTORIST TAKES RIGHT-OF-WAY ON MOUNTAINS

Motorists making mountain trips should remember that motor vehicles going up-grade have the right-of-way over those going down-grade, according to Capt. H. C. Meehan, head of the California highway patrol unit in Orange county.

until the oil producing states adopt a compact which is binding upon the states and which has some force to it. . . . We all recognize the fact that the present oil compact has no teeth and has no power to make an order that is binding upon anyone," he said.

Oklahoma's former Governor Ernest W. Marland, one-time president of one of the largest independent oil companies in the nation, and at whose instigation the interstate compact was found, urged continued close control over production. His statement recalled that Oklahoma also had lost a portion of its markets to Illinois flush production.

"The greatest danger which confronts the oil producer in Oklahoma, or any other state that has a great number of pumping wells, is that the flowing wells of that state or some other state may be permitted to furnish the oil needed in commerce to the exclusion of oil from older wells at a higher cost," he said.

Captain Meehan's statement was made in response to a question submitted by a California motorist who is planning a mountain trip, it was said.

Back Into Space
"The reason for this law is a matter of safety since the driver of a loaded vehicle going up-grade, if attempting to back into a space to permit the descending vehicle to pass on a narrow roadway could easily lose control and plunge over the edge into a canyon," Captain Meehan said.

To other questions submitted, Captain Meehan answered: "Automobiles may be turned in a business area only at intersections not marked with 'no U-turn' signs, and in residential areas, only when another vehicle is not approaching closer than 200 feet."

"No person shall stop, park or leave standing any vehicle within 15 feet of a fire hydrant except when local authorities indicate a different distance by signs or markings or except when a licensed driver is sitting in the front seat."

CONTRACTOR ON LEVEE REPLIES

We have turned over the work of placing fence of different types to another concern and had to discharge the men we hired for the job.

This, in substance was the reply of Basch Brothers, contractors in charge of flood control work on the Santa Ana River, to a request of the Santa Ana chamber of commerce for a statement of reasons why 152 Orange county workers were discharged from the job and replaced by Los Angeles county men.

Cites Experience
"A large item in our contract with the Orange County Flood Control District is the placing of fence of different types," the letter signed by N. L. Basch said.

"We started to do this work ourselves and organized a crew for this purpose composed largely of Orange county men.

"As work progressed it became apparent that it would be to our advantage to turn this work over to a sub-contractor who was thoroughly experienced and who maintained an organization of workmen experienced in this work."

"On Dec. 8, 1938, we turned over to the company the job and the Orange county men were laid off," the letter concluded.

No notice was given in the letter that a contract with another concern had been signed for the placing of fences and unless there had been a signed contract the Basch concern would still be in charge of employment, chamber officials pointed out today.

How 25 Women Lost Ugly FAT In Special N. Y. Test

Ask Your Doctor If It Isn't Good Way. Read EVERY WORD

NEW YORK, N. Y.—In a test by a prominent N. Y. physician and nationally known newspaper woman—25 women lost a total of 288 lbs. in 40 days. YOU, too, can follow this SAME, SENSIBLE plan right at home and here it is:

First of all go light on fatty meats and sweets. Eat plentifully of lean meats, fish, fowl, fresh fruits and vegetables. And for proper functioning by removal of accumulated wastes take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in hot water every morning. DON'T MISS A MORNING Kruschen is made right here in U. S. A. from famous English formula. And this is IMPORTANT: Kruschen is NOT harmful. It is not just one salt as some people ignorantly believe. Rather, it's a blend of 6 active minerals, which when dissolved in water make a healthful mineral drink similar to effective Spa waters where wealthy women have gone for years. A jar of Kruschen costs only a few cents and lasts 6 weeks. So fat ladies—get some gumption! MAKE UP YOUR MIND YOU'LL STICK to the above Plan for 28 days and just see if you don't lose fat and feel healthier and younger. You can get Kruschen at druggists everywhere.

You'll Profit By Reading Every Word

SCOULER'S, 312 North Sycamore street. From among the vast array of spring dresses at Scouler's we selected one we believed to be the most outstanding. This dress of the week is definitely a two-timer, with a jumper effect in banana heart colored silk covering a sun burn colored silk tailored dress. Drop in and see it today.

X-ER-VAC Hair Clinic, 204 Spurgeon Building, Phone 3738. BRING IN THIS AD FOR A FREE X-ER-VAC TREATMENT. Does dull, lustreless hair deprive you of your greatest beauty asset—beautiful hair? Then you need the revitalizing X-ER-VAC treatments now available. This remarkable scientific discovery developed by Dr. Andre A. Cueto of Cincinnati, restores to lifeless, devitalized hair all natural lustre and youthful glamour that has been lost—it stops falling hair and promotes more luxuriant growth. This shop is licensed to provide these scientific X-ER-VAC treatments under the methods developed and used by Dr. Cueto.

VAN DEUSEN'S JEWELRY STORE, 508 North Main street. According to history Valentine's day has always been a time for gifts and sentimental greetings. There are so many lovely things to give as gifts on this holiday at Van Deusen's. Every article in this store is of a quality unsurpassed. You will certainly profit by shopping at Van Deusen's.

ARCADE REMNANT SHOP, 515 North Main. A grand bargain for spring is a special piece of powder puff muslin that is selling for 25c a yard. It is so pretty with its cheerful flowers in bright colors. For a good silk dress we want to say a word about the tucked silk in black at this store. It will make up into a smart spring dress.

QUALITY CLEANERS AND DYERS, 1333 South Main street. With spring almost here it is such a temptation to set back and not take proper care of our winter clothes. Well now, you would just be surprised what a good cleaning will do for your clothes. Take them to the Quality Cleaners where you are guaranteed of satisfactory results.

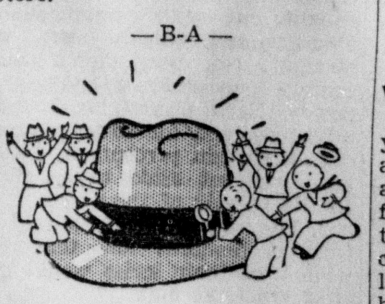

VALESKA RAMSON GIFT SHOP, 901 South Main street. You can find everything for the baby at Valeska Ramson's. On special are the little cotton shirts that will sell 2 for 25c. Oh, and you ought to see the cunning little dirndl dresses that this store carries! They are priced at 69c for any size up to 6 years.

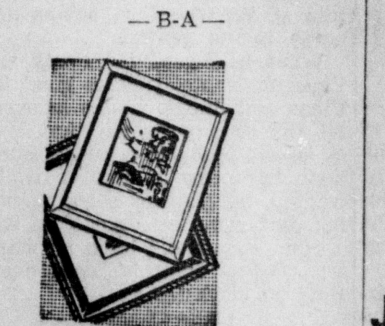

EATON'S BAKERY, Grand Central Market, Broadway between First and Second. It is not too early to order your bakery goods for the Valentine party you are planning to give. Mmm, they do have the grandest cakes at Eaton's and the Valentine designs are superb! Cookies cut in heart shapes with red icing are grand for parties too.

Fashion Tip: There is no set style this spring. The cunning little hat which perches atop your curls is still good, but the large hat is coming back into its own with the entrance of spring styles. Dresses are at any length. The styles this spring are judged by whatever is most becoming to you as an individual.

STAN McPHERRIN, 515 North Main street. No one could enjoy horseback riding better than we do. Of course, we aren't so very good but we like it and we hope the horse we ride can say the same. Back on the subject, you menfolks had better be getting new riding outfits for spring. Stan's has the nicest ones. There are breeches, or jodhpurs, riding crop, polo shirts, riding hats, riding jackets and well, just everything. You can buy either custom made or stock. You may be sure they will be outstanding and priced within your budget. At Stan's, you get quality at no higher price. Oh yes, you can also purchase saddles (English or Western) and riding boots at this store.

ATLAS CLEANERS, Third and Sycamore streets. We are not talking through our hat when we say the Atlas does good hat cleaning at reasonable prices. In fact, we take off our hat to the superior type of work they do. It is not quite time for that new straw so have that winter felt cleaned today. Remember, "Just good work."

LELA N. NORTON, located in DeGregory Paint Store, 502 North Main street. It is not everyone's fortune to be able to express themselves in paints. If you have a secret urge to paint, we say by all means develop it. You can be instructed in either oils or water colors at the Norton Studio. Learn a profession to be proud of.

TREASURE ISLE GIFT SHOP, 506 North Main street. Going, going, gone! No, we are not trying to be an auctioneer, we are just saying what's happening to all the gift specials at the Treasure Isle. SATURDAY is absolutely the LAST DAY of this 1/2 price sale. Hurry up and pick up some of the clever items for gifts, or prizes before it is too late.

SWANSON'S, Drive Inn, 1807 North Main street. We could think of no lovelier place to have that party you are planning than at Swanson's. This restaurant has the grandest food ever, and it is served in an outstanding Spanish setting. Private dining rooms are available for your entertaining. We like too, the cheery new additional room just added at Swanson's. It is lighted with neon lights too. Do drive out and try one of the delicious chicken dinners this drive-in specializes in.

WISSEMAN'S, 420 North Main street. The light in your life should be one of the attractive reflector lamps shown at Wisselman's. A variety of reflector lamps are on special at this store for $7.95. These include values up to $12.95. These lamps have ivory plated or bronze bases and they are complete with shade.

JOHNSTON'S BUSINESS INSTITUTE, 415 North Sycamore street. Phone 3029. Prepare yourself for a business career. The training offered at Johnston's Business School will qualify you to meet the business world. You may take courses, here, in the evening or daytime. Positions are secured. Four students from this school accepted positions this last week.

SCOTTIE'S, 3753 North Main street. You need real pep for those exams, you college guys and gals, so how's about a fresh lobster salad out at Scottie's. As lobster is our favorite food, you may be sure we'll go out there in a hurry. We need pep too. Oh, we almost forgot to tell you that the salad sells for only 30c. See you at Scottie's.

KATHERINE'S DRESS SHOP, 422 North Broadway. Spring is here for the style conscious Hollywood starlettes and for the gals interested in the advanced spring modes. The first release of 1939 for Hollywood starlette dresses should set the pace for the coming season's successful promotions. You will be SMART if you wear one of these chic new dresses. They are shown at Katherine's.

RUTHERFORD'S, 515 East First street. We were certainly delighted to hear the news about the sale on the discontinued numbers of Gossards out at Rutherford's. Just think these numbers are being closed out from $1 up to $1.95. Now isn't that a bargain? A Gossard corset gives you a perfect figure. It not only conceals figure faults but it corrects them as well. In a Gossard you feel comfortable and at ease. The discontinued Gossard numbers include girdles, corsets, corselettes and Miss Simplicity's.

LAGRACE SHOP, 413 North Sycamore street. Give us a blouse for our money any day and we are happy. You can use a blouse on so many occasions. And say, have you heard about the grand 20 per cent off sale the LaGrace Shop is having on their blouses? Everyone knows what clever blouses this shop carries too!

Fashion Tip: Black is the key word to fashion this spring. Suits, dresses, formals are considered smart if they are in black. For an attractive spring outfit we suggest a black tailored suit with black patent leather accessories.

ORANGE COUNTY GARDENS AND HOMES

Orange County Gardening

By MRS. H. CARDOZA SLOAN,
Corona Del Mar

Being sound advice and interesting comment on what to plant and how to care for Orange county gardens.

White Hyacinths

This is Sunday morning and many a good sermon will be preached in the churches of Orange county. I shall not hear any of them. But I have heard a sermon this morning. It was preached by some French Roman hyacinths blooming in my garden.

I grow quite a few spring-flowering bulbs in pots every year. My custom is to put the planted pots underneath the benches in the cloth houses. Curtains of roofing paper, or burlap, tacked to the front edge of the bench keep out the light, and two or three months sojourn in this seclusion develops a good root system before the bulbs are brought out into the garden.

Roman hyacinths do not need as long a period in the dark as do tulips and narcissus, and I thought I had removed them along with pots of scillas and muscari. For several weeks, during the busy Christmas season and the rains, I had not given any attention to the bulbs. But a week ago yesterday being warm and sunny I spent the day picking up odds and ends of gardening and bethought me of the hyacinths. They were not in company with the little bulbs already removed to the light. So I began peering around beneath the benches, and presently, in a dark, dank corner, I came upon a sight which brought forth a long forgotten New England ejaculation, "My Soul and Body!" For, heralded by a wave of heavenly fragrance, there were my hyacinths—all in bloom! Their spikes of pure white flowers lighted that dark corner like so many candles. Their foliage was the color of well-blanced celery, but their blooms were the whitest, the sweetest, the loveliest I have ever seen. I hastened to bring them out into the open lath garden, and, actually, before night you could see the foliage greening.

Now with leaves fresh and green, with many spikes of pure white flowers, with entrancing perfume, they grace my winter garden. I stood before them this foggy Sunday morning and thought of the adverse conditions under which they grew. Yet they despaired not, nor waited for happier and more favoring days, but in the darkness bravely raised the pure white flame of their fragrant bloom.

There is no need to make the application—you will get their message as plainly as I did. So, like the candle in the gloom; like the hyacinths beneath the darkened bench, "brightly may we shine, you in your little corner, and I in mine."

Tree Tomato

"What," comes the inquiry, "do you know about the tree-tomato?" And honestly compelled us to admit "Nothing whatever." That is, we knew nothing at the moment. Now we know a little, which we herewith pass to our inquiring friend and to any others interested.

In the first place, thanks to your questioner, we have seen the large leaf, with the veins striking off irregularly from the mid-rib. And we have seen the fruit, which does not look like a tomato to us, its elongated shape and dull reddish color, even the feel of it in the hand, suggest the implement in our darning basket, upon which, when the contents of the basket accumulate to the point of pushing off the cover, we darn the family socks.

The botanical name of the "tomato-tree" is Cythomandra betacea. It comes from Brazil, and is closely related to the Solanum (the potato, the tomato, the eggplant, the Jerusalem cherry, also several of our ornamental vines are solanums), and slightly more distantly related to the familiar shrubs Iochroma, datura, cestrum, brunfelsia, streptosolen, and to the salpiglossis, nicotiana and petunia.

It makes a tree-shaped, half woody plant, 6 to 10 feet high. The leaves are large ovate, and softly hairy, with a smooth edge. The small flowers, borne in clusters in the axils of the leaves, are pinkish and fragrant. The fruit, on a slender stalk, is about two and a half inches long, egg-shaped, dull, deep red in color, and very seedy.

The fruit is edible (that was the question). Bailey says it is "musky-acid and tomato-like in flavor. Agreeable to those who like tomatoes." A chance caller, who saw the fruit on our desk, volunteered that he had eaten them. No, he wouldn't call it musky. And it didn't taste like a tomato. And he didn't think much of it.

So I fancy the plant is grown for the curiosity of seeing the attractive fruits pendent from its tree-like branches. And, of course, curiosity often extends to tasting the fruit—you will recall one well-known example. In case of the tree-tomato, however, you need not hesitate to eat the fruit. But don't be disappointed if you fail to find it particularly palatable.

If you wish to grow a tree-tomato for its ornamental features, select a sheltered position where the large, soft textured foliage will not be whipped by the winds. P. S. Being almost lacking in the quality of curiosity, it did not occur to me until after I had typed the above that I might eat my sample tree-tomato and find out for myself how it tasted. It is quite juicy, the juice having the thirst-quenching quality of the tomato. It does have a slightly musky flavor. And, at least when bitten through the rind, is slightly bitter and astringent. I have eaten many "fruits" that tasted worse.

TRY DOUBLING UP FOR VEGETABLES

The vegetable gardener has much in common with the factory manager; both like to get as much from their production space as possible. To do this the gardener resorts to two doubling up arrangements called succession and companion plantings.

He knows, for instance, that radishes take only a few weeks to mature, thus leaving a whole row or more of space for another crop. In this case, a mixture of radishes and parsley seed can be planted at the same time, the parsley being slower, and obliging enough to give the radishes full sway for the first few weeks. This is called companion planting, as both crops grow together, although one is harvested before the other.

PEAS HAVE BEEN IMPROVED TO A POINT WHERE THEY ARE NEARLY DOUBLE THE SIZE OF THE OLDER TYPES

Other companions for radishes are cabbage or peas between the rows. In this case two rows are planted in a space for only one, but as the radishes mature quickly and are used up, there remains only one row, with sufficient room for cabbages or peas. Another suggestion is parsnips or beets between rows of spinach. The spinach is a cool-season, fast grower, and is soon used up.

SPONSOR PROGRAM

The February 16th meeting of the Costa Mesa Friday Afternoon club will feature a program under the direction of the club garden section headed by Mrs. R. S. Erbe. Plans for the vent were made at a recent section meeting with Mrs. Merwin J. Fickas as hostess. Arthur Blanding of the Blanding Nurseries at Santa Ana is to be the speaker.

A program of motion pictures which included those of Honolulu presented by the hostess, and colored motion pictures of the home of Mrs. Emma Y. Estabrook in Worcester, Mass., and Florida beach scenes, comprise the section program. Roll call was answered by quotations on roses. A noon covered dish luncheon preceded the program and brief business session.

Present were Mrs. W. G. Walker, Mrs. P. F. Fisher, Mrs. L. A. Norman, Mrs. E. A. Randall, Mrs. Ernest K. Kirby, Mrs. Emily Plumer, Mrs. N. O. Mellott, Mrs. C. G. Huston, Mrs. S. D. Crawford, Mrs. E. R. Daughenbaugh, Mrs. Emma Y. Estabrook, Mrs. George Bissett, Mrs. A. J. Gardner, Mrs. C. H. McAlary, Mrs. A. B. Craig, Mrs. L. B. Smalley, Mrs. Bertha Y. Davis, Mrs. J. M. Cooper, Mrs. S. A. Meyer, Mrs. Harry L. Crebs, Mrs. Merwin J. Fickas, Mrs. Glenn Cheeseman, Mrs. R. S. Erbe, Mrs. Earl Volberding, Miss Alice Plumer and Mrs. Addie F. Yeaton.

LIST LAWN AND GROUND COVERS

Suggestions for lawn plantings are made in a booklet issued by the Agriculture Extension service of the University of California and distributed through the Orange County Farm Bureau.

Calling attention to the fact that there are a good many commercial mixtures on the market the writer of the articles on lawns gives the general rate of seeding as one pound to 200 square feet. The following lawn covers are named:

Lippia repens. A trailing plant useful for outdoor living rooms. Makes dense mat of foliage, in summer is covered with flowers resembling white clover. Very drought resistant and doesn't require mowing. Stands trampling.

Kentucky Bluegrass. Often planted with white clover. Rather difficult to maintain and is usually crowded out by Bermuda grass.

Ryegrass. Coarser than bluegrass. Excellent for shady places.

Bermuda grass. Suitable for hot dry location. Very hardy.

Astoria bent. One of the finest lawn grasses, prefers a cool shady location. Requires considerable care in cutting and wetting.

Ground Covers, Banks, etc.

Vine minor. (Periwinkle) Bright green foliage, blue flowers. A fast grower.

Mesembryanthemums (Ice Plant) Excellent for banks. Fleshy spike-like leaves. Flowers range in color—orange, crimson, yellow and pink depending on variety.

SOW ANNUALS FOR CUTTING

There are two uses for annuals in the garden quite separate and distinct, one for cutting—to furnish bouquets for the house. The other is to figure in the color scheme of garden decorations. Many gardens make them serve the two purposes at once, but if cut freely for bouquets, naturally, the color effect in the garden is spoiled.

A garden of annuals for cutting will furnish bouquets for the house.

Gardeners have adopted the plan quite generally, when they have room to do so, of growing some of their annuals in rows like vegetables solely for cutting purposes and use others in the garden scheme.

Centaureas, which have little garden decorative value, are very valuable as cutting material. Annual larkspur is indispensable for cutting. Both had best be sown in fall or winter to get an early start next spring.

Other annuals that can be sown now are all the various members of the poppy tribe, petunias, snapdragons, alyssum, nicotina (the flowering tobacco), scabiosa Chinese forget-me-nots, calendula and hosts of others.

The one factor in fall or winter seed sowing to be attended to is mulch. Heavy rains will wash seeds out of their regular rows unless a protection against the driving showers is given. Leaves or stalks of the flower garden will give ample protection. If the seeds can be sown in a seed bed for transplanting in the spring, a wooden curb about the bed to prevent the washing of heavy rains is advisable.

Period Pieces Give Charm Told Home

This charming living room is in a house in the Whitmarsh Valley just outside Philadelphia. Designed and built in 1723, its great fireplace, niched windows and classic white panelling are today as they were when Washington quartered his officers here and, on a bet, rode his horse through the large central hallway. Needlepoint light screen and footstool, velvet hangings, oil paintings and a quaint hooked rug add charm and lustre to the room. Other furnishings include Hepplewhite side chairs, a col-

GROW FLOWERS THAT WILL LAST

Gardeners with foresight will make plans to sow some of the everlastings this spring. These beautiful flowers, which appear well in the garden and combine with other flowers in bed borders, can be dried, or cured, for use in winter. They are a colorful race, and arrangements for the table and mantel piece can be made which are good winter substitutes for the real thing.

One of the best of such flowers is the strawflower, or helichrysum, a hardy subject with rich blossoms. Its fine double flowers with yellow centers ranging from pure white to rich scarlet and crimson is excellent material for garden use.

The globe amaranth, or gomphrena, is another good annual for this purpose. It is bushy in character and has purple clover-like heads which make good garden subjects, and durable winter material for arrangements. Sow them at the end of April or the first of May in the open ground, and they will be a mass of bloom in August. The annual statice is a flower of this type. It has continuous blooming habits which are invaluable during the seasons when color is scarce. Ammobium, or winged everlasting, have silvery white flowers with a yellow disk that grows 2 feet tall.

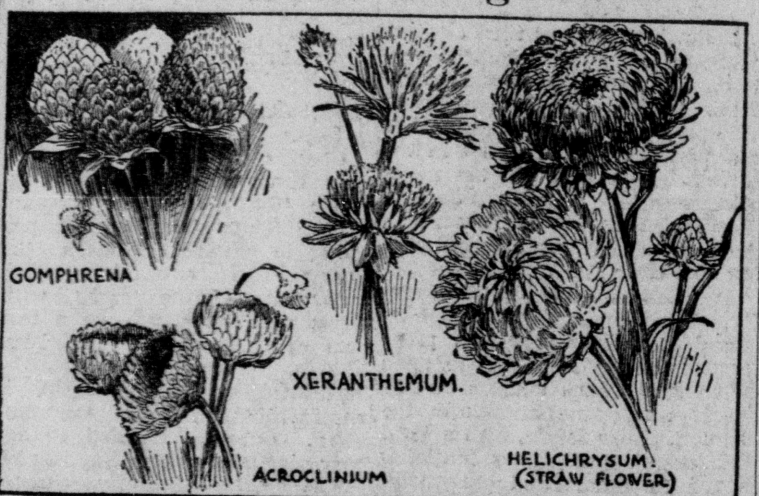

The popular gypsophila, baby's breath, charming, free-flowering, is another good one to dry for winter's use, as well as for summer cutting material. Acroclium, a daisy-like flower with white and rosy pink blooms, can be used for this dual purpose. Rhodanthé, a charming annual with everlasting flowers, is another. It should have a light rich soil, with added plant food, and is valuable as a pot plant.

Drying flowers is simple. Tie them in a bunch and hang in a dry, dark place until thoroughly cured. Usually it is best to cut them when the blossoms are half opened.

SNOWFLAKE ON MY SLEEVE
O lovely star of ice, exquisite crystal flake,
Caught on the dark cloth of my coat,
O tiny voyager from cloud-hung sky
Immeasurably remote.
I marvel at your perfect symmetry,
Your sheer cold delicacy of form:
As if a small white flower suddenly bloomed
In the midst of whirling storm;
But when I look at you more closely
Your frail white filigree turns clear,
And where a flower of ice lay on my sleeve
Is but a crystal tear.
Frederick Ebricht

Although we commonly think of the moon as being full during an entire day, it truly is full to the observer on earth only at the instant when it and the sun are separated by exactly 180 degrees. To the casual observer, no difference can be seen for several hours before or after this period.

A few of the many annual everlastings which can be grown in home garden.

PINK AND BLUE GARDEN MAY BE HAD BY FOLLOWING PLAN

Blue and pink is a favorite color combination and a narrow border 3 or 4 feet in width which is usually available in even the smallest places, may be filled with annuals in these shades to the great delight of the owner and the beauttion, the cosmos in some of its forms reaching 6 feet. A clump of pink sweet peas might be placed here and there for cutting until their blooming season is cut short by hot weather, when gladioli in pink shade or some of the new blue tones, or a pink dahlia can be dropped in for fall display.

In the lower growing annuals in pink there are the godetias, clarkias, larkspurs, petunias, balsams, mourning brides or scabiosas, the annual pinks, the handsome pink shades or the Shirley poppies and other. In blue, the nigella or love-in-a-mist is always handsome. The Chinese forget-me-not, or cynoglossum amabile, is another handsome blue plant that deserves wide use. The ageratum, both the tall and dwarf, add to the list.

The light and deep blue-toned asters are fine subjects for fall display. In dwarf plants for the front of the border a very handsome little plant is "Baby Blue Eyes," nemophila insignis, a beautiful hardy little flower that is rarely seen but is always attractive. The lobelias and pansies offer abundant blue also. The Virginia stocks give a fine sheet of pink with the annual gypsophila to make a handsome edging.

With MARAH ADAMS

How does your garden grow? This very timely question may properly be asked not only all the little Mary's (contrary or otherwise) but all the Betty Lous, the Tommies, the Floyds, the Carls, the Maxines and the Eleanors, as well, in fact any of the children who attend the Santa Ana grade schools.

Because, beyond the slightest doubt, Santa Ana school children are about to adventure in gardening in a big way. One of the results of this adventure which lures them each spring, will be love for a garden and growing things that will play an important part in their lives as young people and adults.

Another and more tangible result will be presents of garden produce to pleased parents. This may be two or three tender radishes (sometimes far, far too young and tender)—radishes pulled before they ever had a chance to show what they really could do in the spring vegetable line.

Or it may be flowers or a few carefully selected beans. A survey of the schools reveals that at least one class of each school either is preparing to plant or else has planted vegetable or flower gardens and in most cases both sorts of gardens.

Even at the Julia Lathrop high school, thoughts of these older pupils are turned gardenward and they are tending gardens whose blossoms are destined for the second annual flower show to be held at that school in April or early in May.

Experience gained in the flower show held at Julia Lathrop last year has paved the way for what without doubt will be one of the major amateur events of the sort in the county this spring. More than 1000 persons attended the one day show last year and the flower arrangements and miniature scenes were surprisingly beautiful. Miss Mary Henderson, one of the teaching staff will announce details in a short time.

But one school in Santa Ana was named for a great naturalist, the John Muir school. Muir was born in Scotland and was a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. He traveled extensively through the United States and Canada before settling in the Yosemite valley in this state. It goes without saying that the children attending John Muir are garden-minded.

Putting in gardens are the Lincoln kindergartners under the direction of Mrs. Charlotte Davidson with vegetables as the principal crop. The plantings are a community affair and co-operative gardening is carried on. The end of the season is observed with a radish party when radishes are served with salt and bread and butter and, as may be imagined, there never were such radishes served before!

Fremont school pupils with Mrs. Edith Gilbert, principal, turns to planting California flowers each spring in parking areas around the corner lot. California poppies and purple iris are favorite plantings bringing about splashes of purple and gold along the street. Each child has his or her plot of ground and poppies at this school are nearly ready to blossom.

Garden interest at the McKinley school takes a different turn from school gardens and pupils plant gardens at home and when they are blooming or the vegetables are making a good showing, garden tours are made to visit them, says Miss Mary Andrews of that school.

Soil at the Edison school constitutes a problem for young would-be gardeners says Mrs. Hazel Maxwell. The ground is heavy adobe and much of the school gardening is carried on in flower pots.

Roosevelt sixth grade pupils have carried on a large gardening project for many years and pupils in the lower grades wait impatiently to enter the classes that permit them to garden. Miss Pearl Camblin is teacher and chief gardener and the numbers of large and beautiful bouquets gathered each year reaches an astounding figure.

Attractive Idea For Club Program

Here is an attractive program idea practiced by the Southern California Horticultural Institute.

Each member comes to the meeting with an interesting plant or something from his garden upon which he gives a 3 to 5 minute talk. At the end of the meeting members vote on the three most interesting exhibits and reports. Three prizes are given at each meeting, these being a box of spray, plant food, seeds, a tool, plant, or some garden article. At the end of the year, the person most frequently voted as a prizewinner receives a silver loving cup that may be attractively used for flower arrangements. This idea has proved an attendance stimulator—The Garden Club Exchange.

News behind the news

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—In moments when U. S. diplomats take off their spats and put their feet on the desk, you will learn that all was not told about the Lima conference.

Not even a pin-word has been dropped on the subject officially. State Secretary Hull and his aide, Dr. Berle, have been content to stand or sit on their arrival statements about the great friendliness of it all. Most newsmen at the conference have privately discounted the published assertions of one of them that their hosts, the Peruvian government, spied on the American delegation.

By unanimous agreement, all concerned want to wrap up the incident and file it away, but when they do you may be sure they will file it under the head of "valuable experiences".

Consensus of inner opinion seems to be that Argentina dominated the conference and the U. S. lost some face. The loss may not have been expensive, but many of our men can now see their original mistake was their failure to recognize the power of Argentina from the beginning.

No confession is needed to substantiate this conclusion. Argentina was openly opposed to a flat declaration of solidarity among American nations, and the public records show no flat words were written in the conference agreements.

The Argentinians apparently prepared for the meeting more energetically than the U. S. did, at any rate, more effectively. They made their voting friends among their good neighbors before the conference met, and had this ill-concealed ace in the hole throughout—against Mr. Hull's jack. Greatest American success was in preventing a showdown.

Dictators are always being blamed for Latin resistance to American leadership, but the question bothering some U. S. diplomats is how much the British chipped in against us. British influence in the Argentine is possibly as great as that of the dictators, if measured by trade—the only true scales.

The British did nothing that anyone could put his finger on, yet the competitive Latin American influence is something at which American statesmen are beginning to point their eyes.

Obviously the Latin American problem remains unsolved, and the main constructive result of the conference was to disclose how much work must now be done.

Food prices will make a balloon ascension if the new Frazier-Lemke bill passes—which is the best indication that it won't, (despite all the congressional names

Mayor Rowland Signs First Traffic Safety Pledge

Mayor Fred C. Rowland, below, center, was the first motorist to sign a traffic safety pledge card, 10,000 to 15,000 of which are to be distributed by Santa Ana school children and several other groups interested in safety on the highway. The mayor is signing in Police Chief Floyd W. Howard's office at the city hall while the chief, right, and F. Ed Farnsworth, jr., president of the junior chamber of commerce look on.

ARRESTS DROP. FINES SLUMP

Due to reduction in the number of traffic arrests here in 1938 as compared with 1937, the gain for city coffers through fines assessed by City Judge J. G. Mitchell was appreciably less in 1938 than in 1937, according to the judge's annual reports on file with the city clerk today.

In 1938, the total fines taken in amounted to $33,188.49 as compared with $38,922.42 in 1937. In 1938, 1421 traffic arrests were made as compared with 2786 in 1937 while a total of 3918 cases in 1938 as compared with 4877 in 1937, were handled.

Report Analyzed
Other facts revealed by the reports show 938 liquor cases were handled last year, 908 in 1937; 1396 violations of city ordinances were handled in 1938, 1059 in 1937 and 163 other misdemeanors were handled in 1938, 124 in 1937.

In 1938, traffic cases represented 36.2 per cent of the total as compared with 57.2 per cent in 1937. The average number of cases and average amount of money taken in monthly last year were 326 and $2765.70 as compared with 406 and $3243.53 for 1937.

SAFETY PLEDGE CARDS GIVEN TO PUPILS IN CAMPAIGN HERE

The Santa Ana police department's traffic safety campaign was well under way today following the issuance of thousands of safety pledge cards to school children yesterday.

The pledge cards, 15,000 of which will be issued during the campaign, according to expectations of Police Chief Floyd W. Howard, are in the form of a resolution to be signed by motorists and returned to the child presenting them.

Bicycle Riders To Sign
A new wrinkle in traffic safety was added to the campaign today by the chief when it was announced that bicycle riders also will be asked to sign the resolution cards. All of the cards will be filed at police headquarters. They state that the signer agrees to help Santa Ana toward an exceptional record for safety during 1939.

Ten thousands of the cards already have been printed. Six thousand of them were distributed to school children, public utility firms, truck operators, taxicab drivers and the telephone company.

Cards Distributed
Cards were distributed in the schools as follows: High school and Lathrop, 1000 each; junior college, Franklin, Fremont and Willard, 500 each and 250 each to Delhi, Hoover, Jefferson, Lincoln, Logan, Lowell, McKinley, John Muir, Roosevelt, Spurgeon and Woodrow Wilson schools. Among prizes offered to five girls and boys obtaining the most cards will be an airplane ride each with a parent, and a student's study lamp.

Chief Howard gave a safety talk over the local radio station at 8:05 o'clock last night. Santa Ana theaters will show trailers which point out that precious traffic safety campaigns here have saved lives and prevented accidents as shown by the records.

FARMERS ALERT ON NEW BILLS

Farmers are keeping a close watch to see what bills will be introduced at the present session of the state legislature, it was stated today by C. J. Marks, executive secretary.

Among the matters which have vexed farming interests in the past and which they hope will not be reintroduced is the proposal to establish a uni-cameral or one-house legislature in California, Marks said. The Farm Bureau was the sponsor of legislation establishing the present status of apportionment of representatives in the legislature, and is anxious to maintain this status which it feels is fair to all interests, he said. Representation solely by population would be prejudicial to rural counties, the Farm Bureau maintains.

At the last previous session of the legislature, a bill to establish a full-crew and 70-car train limit was introduced. Agricultural interests opposed this attempt to place full crews on all trains without considering the need and to limit trains to much fewer cars than railroads have found it possible to haul economically, as it would have materially increased transportation costs, Marks declared. The Farm Bureau successfully represented agriculture's viewpoint and secured defeat of the proposition, he pointed out.

Among other matters which the legislative staff of the Farm Bureau is watching are those relating to labor, such as workmen's compensation laws, sit-down strike regulations and attempts to repeal the criminal syndicalism law.

Cook's Drawings On Display Here

The original humorous drawings of the well-known cartoonist, Ted Cook, are being shown at the Bowers Memorial Museum during January. This one-man exhibit is much talked about, having been popular in Los Angeles, at the Chouinard Gallery asked permission to hold it over.

As one of America's well-known humorists, Ted Cook has entertained the American people through the daily newspapers for more than 15 years. His syndicated column appears in newspapers throughout America. The present exhibit is composed of original drawings which have appeared in "Ted Cook's Coo-Coo Nest."

Cook says he draws these pictures rather hysterically on paper purchased at the ten cent stores. He states that they are usually done in the last ten minutes before mailing time. The drawings have recently been exhibited at the Walt Disney Studios and at the Beverly Hills Citizen News. Following the local exhibit, they are to be shown in Sacramento.

Lowell Students Present Program

The Lowell Parent-Teacher association held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday at 2:30 p. m., the meeting opening with the flag salute and the singing of "America" by the audience.

The second grade children under the direction of their teacher, Miss Ruth Christ, gave a play entitled "Thrill." Miss Ethel Mae Hazen, Jack Randall and Virgil Watkins rendered several selections on the accordion. Mrs. Nell Hunt led a panel discussion on "Recreation and Wholesome Companionship."

Refreshments were served by a group of second grade mothers, Mrs. Riley Huber, Mrs. Ross McPur, Mrs. A. J. "M" and Mrs. A. Mandic.

WOMAN, 93, RETAINS INTEREST IN AFFAIRS OF PRESENT DAY

Not with "I remember when..." as her theme song, but with a vital and vivid interest in present day affairs, Mrs. Mary E. Hancox of 115 Twenty-seventh street, Newport Beach, quietly received friends at her home this week in celebration of her 93rd birthday anniversary.

Alive in all her senses, Mrs. Hancox leaves no impression of age, but rather that there is still a savory share of life to sample. A native of North Carolina, the celebrant is of a long reached age of 93 years and an aunt lived to the age of 93 years and five months.

Teacher In Kansas
A three year career as a Kansas school teacher, during which time the celebrant experienced the well remembered grasshopper raid, was ended with her marriage in 1875 to the Rev. Andrew Hancox of the Des Moines conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. Retiring in 1911, after 40 years of service in that conference, the Rev. Hancox died at Atlantic, Iowa. Since that time, Mrs. Hancox and her daughter, Miss Alice Hancox, with whom she lives, have spent various periods both in the east and California, coming to Newport Beach two years ago. Remaining in the shelter of a Quaker boarding school during the Civil war, Mrs. Hancox did not see any of the historical figures of that period.

In addition to Miss Hancox, her other children are J. Webster Hancox, an attorney in Spokane, Wash., John Hancox, Atlantic, Iowa, insurance man, Gertrude Hancox Carman, wife of Ernest Carman, head of the geology department of Ohio State university, and Mrs. J. L. Hamilton, of Tacoma, Wash.

Quilts Displayed
Many unusual quilts, displayed by the celebrant, included one more than a century old, "Rose in the Wilderness" pattern. Reading is the second principal enjoyment of this young-old lady. An education, the valued possession to be kept and added to by the person concerned, was urged by Mrs. Hancox as the principal objective of present day youth.

Only two years younger than Mrs. Hancox, Mrs. Ella Madison Huston, head of the Costa Mesa, mother of Dr. C. G. Huston, celebrated her birthday anniversary "Friday the 13th" at the Huston home on East Eighteenth street. A family dinner, planned by relatives for the occasion, was postponed as the honoree was recuperating from a cold. Mrs. Huston has been a resident of Costa Mesa for the past 19 years. Mrs. Huston takes an active part in affairs of the Mesa community and in general current events.

PRICE AVERAGE UP 22 PER CENT

Ninety-five carloads of California avocados, limes and dates had been shipped to eastern and mid-western markets by January 13 this season, Manager George B. Hodgkin of the Calavo Growers of California, announced today. The avocado growers' cooperative, shipper of these cars, markets nationally the major portion of these three California specialty fruit crops.

Additional Volumes
This season's shipments east represent twice as many avocado cars and 10 times as many lime cars as for the same period last season. Avocados made up 45 cars of the total, although their peak harvesting has not yet been reached.

Large additional volumes of all three fruits were consumed in local and Pacific Coast markets. An intensive advertising campaign is being carried on by the cooperative growers to tie in with this season's sizable avocado crop.

More Fruit, Better Prices
Grower-returns in the November avocado marketing pool were 22 per cent higher per flat than in the previous peak November, in 1934. In the latter pool, 74,492 flats of avocados were marketed, while the November, 1938, pool totalled 90,465 flats, or some 21 per cent greater fruit volume.

The combination of increased volume and higher price per unit resulted in total dollar returns approximately 50 per cent greater for November, 1938, than for November, 1934.

Miss Vivian Herr To Be February Bride

It was with more than usual interest that friends of Mrs. Catherine A. Herr, 809 North Broadway, learned today through formal announcement made by her, of the approaching wedding of one of her charming daughters, Miss Vivian Louise Herr of Los Angeles, and George J. Paddock of Coalinga.

The date of Sunday, February 18, has been set for the wedding which will take place in Pasadena, according to Mrs. Herr. Her daughter has been practicing her chosen profession of dental hygienist for the past several years in Los Angeles. A graduate of Santa Ana high school, Miss Herr studied at junior college before transferring to University of Southern California dental college where she took her degree. She was very popular here in her home city, and has innumerable friends here who will be deeply interested in her romance.

Mr. Paddock also studied at Santa Ana junior college before transferring to Heald's school of electrical engineering, San Francisco, of which he is an alumnus. He is now in the geophysics department of the Amarado Oil company, with his headquarters at Coalinga. He is a nephew of Miss Clara Paddock, 813 Riverine avenue.

J. O. C. Class Officers Entertain Membership

New officers of First Baptist J.O.C. class were hostesses Tuesday night at a meeting of the group in the home of Mrs. M. M. Holmes, 1221 South Main street, where 30 members and guests assembled. In the hostess group were Miss Effie White, president, and Mesdames Lucille Hill, Hazel Munselle, Ada Davison, Etta Powers and the Misses Mable Cole and Edith Watkins.

Announcement was made that the project for the year will be "To Aid in Teaching the Mexicans," with Mrs. May Borum and Mrs. Severance to direct this feature.

The program of the evening was provided by the general membership as New Year's resolutions were made and dramatized by various groups. Refreshments were served.

Working Girls Report On Welfare Projects

Reports on their welfare activities were given by members of Twelve Little Working Girls Tuesday night during their meeting in the home of Miss Jean McBurney, 825 Garfield street. In addition to distributing holiday baskets, the group provided scrapbooks, toys and other articles for children at Orange county hospital.

Bridge play which followed the business meeting brought first prize to Miss Margaret Thomas. The hostess observed a red and white motif in decorations late in the evening when a salad course was served to the Misses Virginia Curry, Harriet Fowler, Josephine Flaherty, Elaine Reynolds, Margaret Thomas, Betty Bradley, Doris Flippin, Dorothy Coe, Helen Blanche Andrews, and Mesdames Elmer Curry and Frederick Pinkston.

Weekend in Claremont

Miss Barbara Tucker, president of Girls' Ebell society, daughter of the J. B. Tuckers, 702 West Seventeenth street, plans to spend the weekend at Pomona college as a guest of one of the students, Miss Katherine Waldo of Salt Lake City.

The two coeds will attend the Jascha Helfetz concert Saturday night in Bridges hall.

Interesting Santa Anan Is Now In Tenth Decade

With travel by air as the one mode of modern conveyance which she has not yet experienced, Mrs. Mary Flanagan, 921 Lacy street, hopes that the 91st year of a long and richly filled life upon which she embarks today, will bring her that experience as well.

The January 19th birthday anniversary of this remarkable Santa Ana woman, is an event anticipated each year by her many friends. For Mrs. Flanagan's alert mind, youthful personality and keen interest in all that goes on in the present day world, attracts friends from all ages and walks of life.

No formal observance is being given her 91st anniversary beyond the fact that she is quietly at home to her friends. But the birthday has received advance recognition in various ways. Last night the Kenneth Siegels had a group of friends in to play bridge in their Newport Beach home, as a compliment to Mrs. Flanagan, who is a devotee of the game. Mrs. Siegel is her granddaughter and will be remembered as Miss Hazel Coleman prior to her late autumn wedding.

On Tuesday evening, the Robert Beauchamps had an intimate little group in for a similar card party, and presented to Mrs. Flanagan a corsage cluster of the loveliest sweet peas, which Mrs. Beauchamp herself had grown at her West Fourth street home.

Family Dinner On Sunday, a day when Mrs. Flanagan's sons were free to take part in a gay family gathering, she joined her daughter and son of the home, Miss Flanagan and B. W. Flanagan, in entertaining at a mid-day birthday dinner. In the party were young Bernard Flanagan, 7-year-old great-grandson of the celebrant, who also is of the Lacy street home; Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Flanagan and two children, Mary Ellen and Jack; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Flanagan and children, Charles, Ann, Cecelia and Barbara Dean, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Siegel.

That Mrs. Flanagan was capable of aiding in preparation and serving of the menu and entertainment of the guests, is no surprise to her friends, all of whom are aware of her alert mind and excellent health. Even though she is now starting on her tenth decade, she has normal sight and hearing. Her interest in happenings among her friends and in the home community is no less than in national and world affairs, and she finds lively satisfaction in having lived through so many interesting eras of world history. For the first 82 years of her life, Mrs. Flanagan lived in Nebraska where her parents were pioneer settlers, entering the state by ox team.

Eastern Trip Last summer, several months after celebration of her 90th birthday anniversary, the Santa Anan made the trip back to Nebraska accompanied by her little great-grandson, Bernard Flanagan, for an extended visit with three daughters and a son yet residing in her former home state. While there she traveled a distance of two thousand or more miles by automobile. Having known such diversified transportation as ox team, horse and buggy, stage coach, train and automobile, it is natural that she should be keenly interested in airplane travel, and her friends are hoping that she will find this wish possible of fulfillment.

Attending Whittier Event Mrs. Florence Wright and Dr. James Workman, worthy high priestess and watchman of shepherds of Damascus White Shrine headed a group of members attending a reception Tuesday night in Whittier. Honored were Florence Cadwell and Harry C. Cole of Illinois, supreme worthy high priestess and watchman of shepherds.

Completing the group of local members present were Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Patterson and Mesdames Jennie Shippe, Marian Wallace, Marie Beisel, Lillian Dawson and Pearl Hyde.

Worthy high priestesses and watchmen of shepherds will honor the two supreme officers Sunday with a party at the Little Theatre of Padua Hills.

Bachelorettes Greeted Bachelorettes accepting invitation Tuesday night of Miss Lorle Buell, 1725 West Eighth street, included one new member, Miss Isabel Parker, with the Misses Helen Crowther, Evelyn Groover, Betty Harris, Gladys Johnson, Dorothy Rosenbaum, Nadine Taylor and Anna Towle.

Much of the evening was given over to plans for early spring affairs, including initiation rites for new members and a spring formal, the date for which will be announced later. Miss Buell served apple pie a la mode with tea at the close of the business discussion.

Mrs. Tucker Receives Bridge Club Members

An afternoon of bridge in the home of Mrs. J. B. Tucker, 702 West Seventeenth street was shared Tuesday afternoon by club members. They missed two of the group, Mrs. Mona Summers Smith, who underwent an appendectomy the first week in January; and Mrs. Baxter Jouvenot, who is in St. Joseph hospital recuperating from an operation.

Mrs. Ray C. Hoiles was a guest, while members present were the hostess and Mesdames Horace Stevens, John Ball, Fred Forgy, Hugh Lowe, Richard Emison, Dexter Ball, Lawrence Coffing, Rex Kennedy, Herbert Miller.

Sweet peas and roses formed decorations for the pleasant affair, which opened with the serving of luncheon.

Harmony Bridge Club Plans Bridge Luncheon

Mrs. Maude Swarthout and Mrs. Alice Tolhurst, recently elected officers of Harmony Bridge club, joined as hostesses Tuesday in entertaining club members at luncheon in Rossmore cafe, as preliminary to the afternoon of bridge play in Masonic temple.

In the short business meeting immediately after the group repaired to the temple lounge, plans were made for a bridge luncheon to be open to the public, and scheduled for Tuesday, February 21 in the temple. In bridge play which followed, prizes in the auction group were won by Mesdames Carrie Cole and Juanita Cozad, with Mesdames Jennie Shippe and Maude Swarthout winning among contract players.

Post-Nuptial Shower Honors Mrs. Sherwood

Mrs. William Sherwood (Lena Hansen) was showered with miscellaneous gifts early this week when she was honored at a post-nuptial shower in the home of Mrs. Paul Cozad, 1413 South Garnsey street. Mrs. Cozad and Mrs. H. J. Clayton were co-hostesses.

Cootie was the game of the evening, with prizes going to Mrs. Bert Hulme and Mrs. S. D. Pemberton. A valentine motif came into prominence during the refreshment interval, when sandwiches and salad were served.

Ernest Kellogg Auxiliary V. F. W. members formed the guest list. With Mrs. Cozad, Mrs. Clayton and Mrs. Sherwood were Mesdames Bert Hulme, S. D. Pemberton, E. K. Merrifield, Arthur Cole, Ralph Rowe, Neal Meister, Ruth O'Malley, Charles Cleary, Effie Hawley, Frank Besser, Fred Pope, Charles Hatt, Harold McCleary, Anna McCleary, George Hubbard, George V. Area, James Sullivan, Athel McEvoy, Charles Leimer, John McKean, Smith Duckett, Glenn Hendrickson and Miss Minnie Besser.

Guests at Party Express Farewells to Honoree

Traditional pinks and blues came into prominence yesterday afternoon in decorations in the home of Mrs. Ray Tarr, 2112 North Ross street, for a layette shower given as a charming compliment to Mrs. Claude Brakebill.

White pottery booties held clusters of pink sweet peas, blue delphiniums and delicate white blossoms, centering tables at which dessert was served early in the afternoon. Additional flowers adorned the table in the dining room, where a miniature clothesline proved of special interest. Diapers pinned to the line contained the prettily-wrapped shower packages which the group had provided for Mrs. Brakebill.

Guests regretted to learn that the party also served as a farewell to Mrs. Brakebill, since she and her husband are completing plans to move to San Diego.

Bridge play of the afternoon brought prizes to Mrs. James Truitt, Mrs. Burt Zaiser and Mrs. Francis Horton, who held the two high and low scores.

Invited to share the affair with Mrs. Tarr and Mrs. Brakebill were Mesdames Robert Miller, George Walker, Harold Dale, Burt Zaiser, James Truitt, Herbert Stroehlein, Edgar Elfstrom, Newell Vandermast, Francis Horton, Gail Gordon, Worth Babbitt, Charles McDaniel Jr., Albert Harvey, George Spielman, Alvin Stauffer, Wendell Finley, Robert Guild, Stanley Norton and Charles Dodge.

Charming Party Added To List For Bride-elect

Miss Elinor Morilla, whose wedding to Leland McCabe is to take place Saturday of this week, had a succession of charming parties planned in her honor, latest of which was the courtesy of Miss Eunice Spicer. It was on Tuesday evening that Miss Spicer received a guest group in her home, 2415 North Main street, where her mother, Mrs. Erwin H. Spicer, joined in cordial greetings.

Plate doilies and napkins of a luncheon set were distributed among the guests to be finished and presented to the honor guest for her collection of linens. These were among the pretty shower gifts presented Miss Morilla at the close of the evening, all of them following a theme of red and white for her future kitchen.

Informal games of the evening yielded prizes to Mesdames Mildred Morilla, Meredith Crumley, Bert Conlisk and Marvin Stary. In conclusion Miss Spicer and Mrs. Spicer served refreshments amidst the sweet peas gracing their home so charmingly.

Party guests with Miss Morilla and her mother, Mrs. Mildred Morilla, included Mrs. Bert Conlisk and Mrs. Stuart Meece of Long Beach; Mrs. Edith Nagle of Crescent City; the Misses Barbara and Betty Reed of Orange; Mesdames Meredith Crumley, Harry Manns, Marvin Stary, Bud Wolf and the Misses Doris Morilla, Hazel Cartwright, Louise Sexton, Betty Martin, Beatrice Granas, Melva Thorpe and Dorothy Van Deusen.

Auxiliary Board Makes Plans For January Dinner

Birthday anniversaries of Mrs. E. F. Mathews and Mrs. Robert Sandon were given special celebration Tuesday night at a meeting of Legion auxiliary executive board in the home of Mrs. George Canfield, 1115 North Olive street.

Mrs. Smith Duckett conducted the evening's business meeting, during which plans were completed for a membership dinner Tuesday, January 31 at 6:30 p. m. in Veterans hall. Mrs. Florence Chess, department president, will make her official visit to the unit at that time instead of the week as planned originally. Reservations for the event must be made by January 30 with Mrs. Mathews.

Mrs. Roy Roepke and Mrs. Ralph Mitchell provided birthday cakes which were served at the close of the meeting.

Ebell Members to Hear Talk By Frances Russell

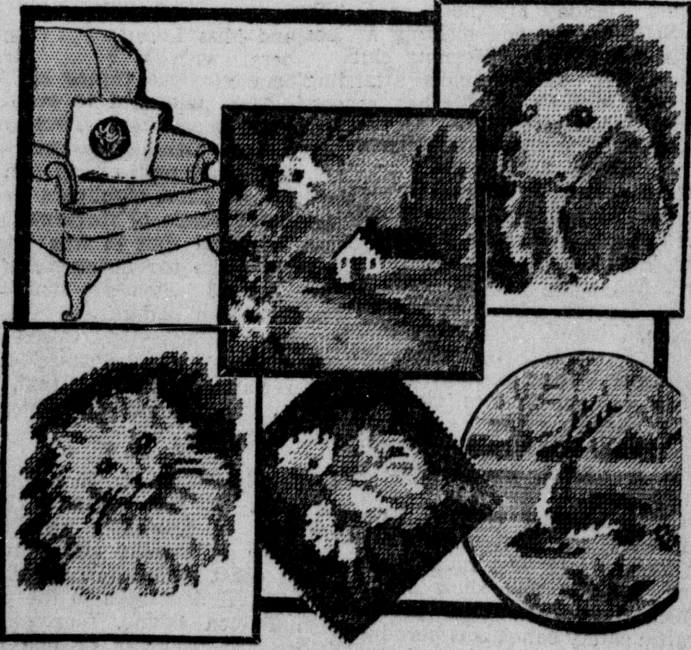

Prominent in newspaper work and in the literary field in general, in her talk, Mrs. Nicholson and traveler will bring her personal impressions of literary figures to Ebell society Monday afternoon during a program opening at 2 o'clock in the clubhouse. "Literary Figures at Home and Abroad" is the title of her talk, which is expected to prove of special interest to the club group.

Miss Russell, who collaborated with Dr. Fearn on "My Years of Strength", a book to be published this spring by Harper's, will give a short resume of the book. For ten years a newspaper and publicity woman in California, Miss Russell has traveled extensively over three continents. She was woman's editor and feature writer for the North-China Daily News in Shanghai for three years. During the course of her travels, she has been in contact with many of today's outstanding political and literary figures. She draws on her own experience and observations in bringing intimate glimpses of these personalities to her audiences.

Dinner Is Celebration Of Church Golden Anniversary

To those 200 or more members and friends of First Congregational church who last night dined together in the church dining room on the exact golden anniversary of the founding of the institution, it was brought home forcibly that half of those golden years of its existence have been under the spiritual leadership of the Rev. Perry Frederick Schrock.

This dinner event was a high light in the week of special programs commemorating the anniversary, and the whole building was radiant with friendliness. Golden bells were in the main auditorium and as table decorations for the dinner hour, where they were posed on gilded pine cones amidst sprays of gilded leaves and many yellow tapers.

Receiving Line Arriving guests received greetings from the pastor and his wife, heading a line of church executives, visiting pastors and charter members, the majority of whom were presented with due ceremony during the program interval following the dinner hour. There was the reverence proper to the setting and the occasion, with J. A. Cranston offering invocation, and the Rev. Schrock pronouncing benediction.

Dr. Henry Kendall K. Booth, pastor of Long Beach First Congregational church, was guest speaker, his introduction following a series of short talks and musical numbers introduced by Harold Wahlberg, master of ceremonies. In his introductory talk, Mr. Wahlberg spoke of the value of retrospection, and dwelt upon the changes in the community since January 18, 1889, when a group of prominent citizens met to form the Congregational church. Three who were young people of that charter membership were present last night to be introduced, Mrs. Nell D. Winslow, Miss Lida Crookshank, and A. J. Cruickshank, who also had served as one of the three moderators of Southern California conference which this community has provided.

Dr. C. G. Huston, present moderator, was also introduced, as was Mrs. Fred Staff, whose husband was an early pastor. In addition to letters and telegrams of greetings read by the pastor, were congratulations voiced by guests. The Rev. C. M. Aker, pastor of Spurgeon Memorial M. E. Church, South, oldest in the city, was especially happy in the phrasing of greetings from the Ministerial association. Ralph Smedley, Y. M. C. A. secretary, representing business interests and men's service clubs, brought equally felicitous congratulations. Musical numbers during this interval, featured Mrs. Walter Spicer, whose violin numbers, a "Canzonetta" and "Viennese Melody," were accompanied by Mrs. M. E. Le Sourd, and Mrs. Benjamin Livesey, who sang "Danny Boy" and "Long, Long Ago," with Alan Revell, church organist, at the piano.

Gifted Speaker When Dr. Booth was introduced as guest speaker, he too expressed his pleasure in the anniversary event before entering upon an eloquent exposition of the need of the church in a world which has experienced the "saddest year in its history," with little hope for humanity in the prospect of the year ahead. Quoting that "Force is the only arbiter in the world affairs," he pointed out that humanity's only hope of permanence upon which to build, is the living force of Jesus Christ.

It is his belief that the future will see a more pronounced turning to religion because of loss of faith in education, in statecraft and the temporal things upon which man has depended.

Mrs. Schrock, who shared with her husband, the congratulations and good wishes for many more years of service in this community, was gracious and charming last night, in soft green lace with which she wore a spray of orchids. A feature of the dinner hour was the presentation to the pastor of an anniversary gift, with Ronald Crookshank of the Congregational Men's club, making the presentation. Miss Mary Schrock, daughter of the ministerial family, in daffodil yellow taffeta, and Miss Harriet Spicer in lacquer red taffeta with lace bolero, had charge of the guest book.

Sunday's services will bring the week of celebrating to a close. Dr. Raymond C. Brooke, Los Angeles, will be morning speaker. The evening program will feature a pageant written by Mrs. Edith Thatcher and directed by Mrs. L. L. Beaman.

De Molays Participate In Informal Dinner Planned as one of the final events under the regime of Dick Horton, master counselor of Santa Ana chapter Order of De Molay, was a dinner party Tuesday night in Masonic temple. Although the event came on the chapter's regular meeting date, special notices were sent out so that all DeMolays might take part in the informal affair.

The master counselor's mother, Mrs. Roy S. Horton, president of De Molay Mothers' Circle was aided by Mrs. Guy Christian in carrying out plans for the dinner. Mrs. E. E. Mann, who had been appointed general chairman, was unable to be present.

Seventy-five De Molays found places at the long table which had been decorated by Mrs. A. A. Hardy. Since Glenn Cave Jr. will succeed Horton as master counselor, his mother, Mrs. Glenn Cave

Tenth Year in Pastorate Inspires Reception

Garlanded with pepper boughs and ferns, the social hall of First Baptist church was scene last night of a colorful affair at which members of the congregation complimented their pastor, the Rev. Harry Evan Owings, and Mrs. Owings upon the tenth year of their local pastorate.

In the receiving line with Mr. and Mrs. Owings were Messrs. and Mesdames E. A. Bell, A. M. Robinson, F. W. Sanford and Mrs. Russell Crouse. After guests were welcomed, the minister and his wife were escorted to the platform where an arbor of greenery was centered with a large scarlet heart, establishing the motif of the evening. The door of this heart was opened by Mrs. Crouse, president of the Women's association, who pointed out that Mr. and Mrs. Owings had definitely established themselves in the heart of their church people during their ten years in the city, as well as in the religious, social and cultural life of the community.

As the honor guests passed through the door of the heart, they were met by E. A. Bell, with a large basket of scarlet and white flowers from the church deacons, A. M. Robinson, chairman of the board of trustees, followed with a gift of a Sheffield tray from the congregation, and Chester Stearns, president of the young people's organization, presented that group's gift of a potted plant.

Additional flower gifts included the gardenias worn by Mrs. Owings, sent by the Men's council; red carnations from Miss Camp and a basket of red roses from Mr. and Mrs. George S. Smith. Both Mr. and Mrs. Owings expressed appreciation for the gifts and the affection they represented, and to which both respond so fully.

Mrs. Charles G. Nalle presented the musical program opening with a vocal trio, Mary Nalle, Harriet Abrams and Marion Thompson. They sang "The Star" and "All Through the Night." Miss Charlotte Stafford, accompanied by David Craighead, played a group of violin numbers, including "Ave Maria." Miss Katherine Collins sang to Mrs. Nalle's accompaniment, and the program closed with a play presented by the adult education drama department directed by Julia Constance Layman.

Two tables from which refreshments were served, developed the heart motif with marked beauty. Both were spread with lace, one of them using scarlet tarleton over the lace, with white candles and crystal appointments, the other in silver. Mrs. M. M. Holmes and Mrs. W. H. Harrison presided at the tea table, assisted by Miss Lula Minter and Mrs. Warren Brakeman. Mrs. Roland Stearns and Mrs. James Richards were at the punch table.

Mrs. Leslie M. Pearson and her courtesy committee, and Mrs. A. M. Robinson and her social committee, had planned the party in all its friendly and charming details.

was asked to preside over part of the meeting. She presented plans for activities in which De Molay and Job's Daughters' Mothers circles will figure.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 19.—Settin' Around (Warner Brothers): Jeffery Lynn, John Garfield, John Payne and Ann Sheridan are Warner Brothers' "Best Bets for 1939" and the best arguments I can think of to indicate the rising position of this studio in Picturedom. No other studio can list as many promising youngsters of star caliber—most, in fact, haven't a single personality "hot enough" to be considered a major box office threat.

Whether Warners were merely lucky in contacting those four best-bets, or whether this studio was shrewd enough to realize the necessity of finding new faces, I don't know—but I prefer the latter surmise, for I know that Jack Warner, the big boss of the lot, is the one producer who has a mania for building for the future. I like the way Lynn, Garfield, Payne and Ann Sheridan are being developed—a variety of roles designed to give them the most versatile training, yet no parts big enough to put them on trial prematurely.

Of the four I think Jeffery Lynn probably has the most brilliant future, not because he is the best actor, but because he has the most appealing personality I've ever encountered. And he has enough drive, determination and ambition to equip an army. During the eight years since he turned actor, he has gone broke repeatedly and been forced to work at this, that and the other thing to exist. But each time he has battled his way back into grease-paint. It's actors like Jeffery Lynn, who, having once reached the top, stay put.

CHATTER ABOUT WARNER BROTHERS IDOLS: How about a sharmock as a trademark for this studio—of thirteen male celebs on its roster, six are Micks? Sometimes I wonder if Anita Louise's beauty isn't a handicap—directors refuse to believe any one so lovely can act. Add song-bird discoveries: Jim Cagney—you'll be hearing his baritone from the screen ere long. Pat O'Brien has a new hobby—he's collecting fine bindings. You never think of her as a glamour gal, but Glenda Farrell's wardrobe is a symphony in sophisticated good taste. Mention of Ann Sheridan always reminds me that a shapely understanding is a mighty good foundation for a screen career. The fact that you invariably think of Bette Davis when fine acting is mentioned is an indication of how rare good acting really is.

Those wise-guys in every audience who sneer when the hero and heroine seem to be taking chances would have been a bit dashed had they been on the "Dodge City" set today. Errol Flynn, Olivia de Havilland and Alan Hale were trapped, by script mandate, in a burning baggage car. The whole scene was shot in close up; consequently the use of professional stunt men was impossible. And not only was the coach on fire, but six property men were feeding the blaze with nozzles spouting rock gas. Of course, a brigade of firemen was on hand, and every precaution was taken, but it WAS dangerous—and the nerve-tension of every person present was eloquent testimony to that effect. Once the scene was finished, the let-down was in proportion to the previous anxiety. Witness the hysterical laughter that greeted Alan Hale's plaintive crack: "If you smell any ham burning—it's probably me!"

For week's I've been hearing hosannas about the effectiveness of Paul Muni's makeup for "Jauze"—and I've been shrugging them aside as publicity exaggerations. But the laugh's on me. I met him today and would have passed him up as a stranger if his voice hadn't finally betrayed his identity. The make-up man, taking into consideration Benito Juarez's Indian blood, has not only changed Muni's coloration, but actually changed the contours of his face with the cleverest use of putty I've ever seen. The bridge of the Muni nose is built up and broadened. His cheekbones are built higher and further accentuated by "Shadow." After seeing the picture, hunt up an old tin type picture of Mexico's Number One hero—and you'll understand my amazement.

Bette Davis is having her troubles with the role of the Empress Carlotta—not because the characterization is beyond her acting ability, but because the hoop skirts and many starched petticoats of the period are a problem to any modern girl. Today, playing a scene with Walter Kingsford, she attempted to turn quickly, got tangled in the flounces of her gown—which contains 30 yards of material—and did as neat a brodie as ever graced a Sennett Comedy. And you should have seen her explode. "You don't need an actress for this part," she stormed, "what you need is a stunt woman!"

Traffic accidents have increased in numbers, but the death rate based on mileage has decreased 17 per cent since 1925.

Cranberry sauce would be served more generally if women could find an easy way to make it. This method is extremely simple and the recipe is called Ten Minute Cranberry Sauce. 1 lb cranberries, washed and picked over 2 cups water 1½ or 2 cups of sugar.

Boil sugar and water together for five minutes from the time a galloping boil starts. Pour in cranberries and boil without stirring for another five minutes. Take from fire and let stand in container until cold.

For a firmer jellied sauce use 2 cups of sugar. I suggest cooling the sauce in a bowl so that it will be nicely shaped for table use.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Baked Stuffed Salmon

2 cups rolled toast crumbs ¼ cup bacon fat ¼ cup chopped onion 1 cup chopped celery 1 tablespoon minced parsley 2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle ½ cup boiling water

Salt and pepper to taste 1 small salmon, weighing from 4 to 5 pounds, or 2 long salmon fillets

Gently fry onion, celery and parsley in bacon fat until the onions are soft and yellow. Add crumbs and chopped pickle and let steam for 10 minutes; then season and add hot water; perhaps not all allowed by recipe but enough to make a moist dressing. If the salmon is a small one, press it full of dressing and wrap in cooking parchment paper, first garnishing with lemon slices and bits of butter. If the fillets are to be used, put one on parchment paper top with dressing and the other fillet. Garnish with lemon and butter, wrap securely and bake 1 hour in a 400 degree oven, basting paper frequently with water.

Lemon Jelly Roll

3 eggs, whites beaten stiff 1½ cups sugar 1 teaspoon orange juice 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel ½ cup water 2 cups cake flour, sifted before measuring

½ teaspoon salt and 2 teaspoons baking powder sifted with flour three times.

Beat egg yolks with water, orange juice and grated peel. Gradually add half of the sugar and beat again. After beating egg whites to a foam, add balance of sugar slowly and beat until stiff. Alternate flour and egg whites in making batter, using a cutting and folding-in motion rather than a beating stroke. Oil a cookie sheet and line with buttered paper, spread batter in thin layer and bake in slow oven 25 minutes. Turn onto a sugared towel, cut off all edges and spread with filling. Roll up and cover with waxed paper.

WILLIAM C. MAY

Yesterday at his home on South Main street, death came to William C. May and brought an end to a life story full of interest and practical value and inspiration in these times when many persons are wondering whether America really holds forth opportunity for the development of individual personality and prosperity.

Thrown upon his own in early life, advancing through hard, willing work, Mr. May became a successful farmer and business man in his home state of Nebraska. He took his citizenship seriously. With sound and conservative ideas, a keen and intelligent interest in public affairs and an active and resourceful energy, Mr. May became not only a local leader, but also one of the foremost men in the political affairs of his state. For years, "Bill" May was always one of those elected by Nebraska as a delegate to the national conventions of his Republican party. He knew most of the prominent political leaders of the Middle West, and many was the conference to which he was called.

Coming to Santa Ana after most of his active life had been lived, Mr. May quickly made scores of friends and a place for himself in affairs. Here he was particularly interested as a leader of the republican party. His was not a selfish interest. He was devoted to the welfare of his country, and he was through party organization and activity that he made his convictions known and made them count.

All his life, Mr. May met problems straightforwardly, fairly and honestly, with resourcefulness and hard work. Through hard times and good, he kept his head above water and asked no favors of any man. Those who knew him best are all aware of the fact that were he a young man starting out today, he would go into life cheerfully and energetically, knowing that life holds forth success for those who go after it. Nothing today could look any tougher to him than did some of the years he passed through in the Middle West in decades gone by.

He was a man who made friends easily and who did them fast. Many thousands in California and Nebraska join most sincerely with those near and far to him in grief that death had to come to him.

LIKINGS AND LEAVINGS

Many things about totalitarian governments completely baffle anyone reared in the American tradition. One of them, unwillingness of dictatorships to allow certain people to leave their boundaries, was illustrated when British Bryan Crover sought reunion with his wife.

Grover, an oil man, worked in Russia and married a native girl. He went to Iran the next year with her. Russia refused readmittance. They couldn't let his wife out to join him.

Then Grover staged a madcap airplane flight to Russia, was arrested and jailed. Now, after a year, Romeo has his Juliet and a Moscow promise that the two are to be free to go as they please. One, however, because Russia was eased by the Lochinvar-like stunt.

The story raises this question: why should a nation of 180,000,000 people have been so persistent in keeping one of its daughters from joining her husband? In Europe, those who don't like the "atmosphere" can't leave. In the United States they can but they won't.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

By R. C. Hoiles

SOUND VOTING SYSTEM

The Sheppard Committee makes some recommendations with the attempt to prevent politicians from using the money that is spent to influence voting. They admit that it cannot be controlled but possibly some of the most flagrant violations of common decency can be checked. Walter Lippmann, discussing the matter, suggests that possibly one of the ways would be to take away the right to vote for anybody seeking office or holding an office; that this would include even those people working for the government in W.P.A. positions. As the government's votes increase, the voters working for the Government will have the balance of power and the vote citizens will have less influence.

One of the weaknesses of democracy is that it usually begins to perform services for special people that it does not perform for everyone and use people who receive special services from Government begin to vote, not for the general good but for more and more special privileges. This very fact is one of the reasons why the government should not undertake to do anything that is not absolutely necessary that it do, because it, sooner or later, leads to a method of the holders buying their positions with the product of the labor of private enterprise.

Four Sound Policies Needed For Democracy
If we are to restore prosperity and return to what near the liberty we had a quarter of a century ago, it will be necessary for us to establish four sound policies, namely: (1), Sound voting system that prevents those from voting who are especially favored; (2), A sound money system; (3), A sound taxing system; (4), A sound wage system.

If we had a sound voting system that people would be receiving benefits from the government and not permitted to vote, it would be much more likely that we would have the other three essentials of prosperity and of liberty.

A MINISTER'S FORESIGHT

Yesterday, we reproduced the first part of a small folder issued by Reverend James W. Fifield, jr., minister of the First Congregational Church of Los Angeles. If you failed to read it, we believe you missed a good presentation from a sincere man with foresight.

Today we complete the article. We recommend that the ministers in the territory give this suggestion of Reverend Fifield's thoughtful and prayerful consideration.

The leadership which is called for should be provided by the clergy because (1.) the problem is basically SPIRITUAL; (2.) other groups such as educators are too tied to the totalitarian purse to speak out boldly, and (3.) if the church can save America from the impending tragedy of dictatorship, in the doing, it will save itself. The church has long needed a real rallying cry. Perhaps the separation of Church and State was conceived for just such an emergency as now confronts us. Churches get about the support they deserve. Here is an opportunity for the church to deserve the larger support it needs, an opportunity to reclaim many who have deserted it because of its impotence, and an opportunity to regain its real spiritual birthright. If, with Jesus, we believe in the sacredness of individual personalities, then our leadership responsibility is very plain. The clergy leadership is trusted and honored in America. The hosts who do not think into the implications of our present status will repudiate the present trend under a constructive, courageous, ministerial leadership.

It is not too late. We have detoured a long way but not too far. America is a rich nation with rugged citizens. She can survive her out-of-balance budgets. She can lift her head and go forward to fulfill her destiny if her worthy destiny if solid foundations be restored. Time-vindicated principles must supplant the present program of expediency. Those whose judgment I most trust assure me that the trend is not yet irrevocable. The greatest present danger is not in today's harvests but in the seed which is today being sown. Our people have not yet surrendered to the propaganda deluge. The clergy can restore individual thought on a wide-spread scale, and when our citizens are aroused to constructive thought, their conclusions may always be trusted.

The task which I suggest the clergy should assume is not an easy one. We shall be called partisans, even though we would be the very last to link our Christianity to any partisanship. We may be called unpatriotic and accused of "selling out," but so was Jesus. In the long last we will not only win our cause, for the church is the most powerful and important institution in America, but we will also win the respect of those who at the beginning may libel us. In a very small way I have seen this cycle pass already. Within the reach of my own pulpit and radio broadcasts are many who formerly condemned the attitude which I am here presenting, but who more recently have been kind enough and frank enough to commend it. I may add that in this group there are a number of ministers who themselves are now speaking plainly about the dangerous trails America is following. One influential minister preached a sermon recently upon the topic "I Confess My Sins," voicing his overpowering sense of remorse for the destructive influence his utterances had been.

I abhor hysteria-producing alarmists. I am not a reactionary. I visited Russia and other nations with an open and eager mind, hoping something there would point the way to better things here. Always I returned with a deepened devotion to the American way, despite all its imperfections. Here, as in those nations, the spiritually committed church may be our last line of defense against the totalitarian trend. Step by step, America moves toward tragedy for the prevention of which we ministers have large responsibility because our first allegiance must always be to God in Christ. We have gone far enough along the road so that there can be no mistake about what lies at the end of the trail. The pattern is too similar to that followed in other nations which are further advanced in this same trend for us to be mistaken. We need not question the motives of our leadership or its advisors. That is beside the point. The point is to save America from the tragedy toward which it moves. To do so would be to contribute immeasurably to freedom and the Christianity-producing environment over the whole earth at a time of direst need.

The question which I am raising in this little friendly pamphlet is whether the church, indifferent and silent, shall remain part of the problem or whether the church, aroused and courageous, shall become part of the solution. I hope my concern is ill-founded and have for a long time withheld this message, hoping to see some reassuring sign. But alas! The facts lead increasingly and inescapably to the conclusion that we are moving toward the dangers of dictatorship—dangerous, however benevolent. Surely our duty is clear. If there seems to be justification, let us plan to get together in small groups at central points and discuss things further, meanwhile speaking out clearly about it and encouraging other ministers who are thus-minded to do likewise. This would seem a thoroughly Christian procedure for those of us who seek to serve Him and who love America.

The Nation's Press

A BOASTFUL REACTIONARY

(Minneapolis Tribune)

People do not always agree on their definitions of terms commonly used in politics today—"liberal", "conservative" and "reactionary", for instance. But Channing Pollock, the American playwright and author, has just been having a bit of fun in calling himself a reactionary and proving why he's proud of it. In a recent talk at the University of Cincinnati, he deplored the trend against democracy. If going back to the course of government and affairs of twenty-five years ago means being a "reactionary," then that's the label Mr. Pollock wants, he told his audience.

The playwright cited recent history to show that we were a pretty happy people up to the world war and for some time after that. "To begin with," he recalled, "in 1914 the world had not known a major war since 1871 nor a general war since 1815. We had not arrived at the high civilization in which whole populations were provided with bomb shelters and trained to use gas masks." The losses under dictatorship today were then traced, preceding an extended portion of the address devoted to the relief problem and the dependence upon governmental largesse which has been bred in the course of recent years.

Mr. Pollock used ancient history almost with zestful glee in proving that "new deal" ideas were really centuries old. "We are not making history," Mr. Pollock thundered, "we are merely repeating it. The father of regimentation was a Babylonian monarch 2,200 years B. C.; you will find the first wages and hours bill in Hammurabi's code. Servius Tullius made a small portion of the Roman population pay all the taxes, Augustus distributed largesse as a means of ingratiating himself with the mob, and Diocletian and Constantine tinkered with the currency, fixed prices, and tried to regulate production. I'm a red shirt tailed radical compared with our rulers—I merely want to cling to what was good twenty-five years ago; they want to revive what was bad in the dark ages!"

The playwright contends that we've had enough of "forward marching into the blackest pages of history." Legislatures and dictators alike have placed too much faith in governmental decrees, Mr. Pollock argues. A strongly serious note tinged his satirically humorous claim that he is a reactionary, crying: "Let's go back to the path that leads ahead."

Fair Enough

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The most offensive and obvious fraud on earth is the pretense by the Communists, on the one hand, and the Nazi-Fascists, on the other that they are at war on any other issue than a greedy rivalry for power. In methods and in their scorn of principle and honest dealing the dictatorship of Berlin and Rome are exactly like their nominal enemies of Moscow, and it can be shown out of their own conduct that they employ every foul and treacherous trick that they can in the operations of the Communists and attribute to the Jews.

The Communists, for example, receive their political direction from Moscow and, though they may hold citizenship in the United States and swear to uphold the constitution, are relentless enemies of the American form of government and the freedom and peace of the people. The Nazis and Fascists, who condemn and pretend to hate this devil, nevertheless follow the same course in this and other foreign lands.

The Nazi laws permit and encourage tested Nazis in foreign countries to become citizens, but require them to remain German nevertheless, and to extend themselves in the interests of Nazism to the injury of their adopted lands. This cannot be done without descent to the very same mental reservation and perjury which Nazi agents in this country profess to loathe in the Communists and vice versa, and the anti-American bands are identical with the Communist groups in their hatred of the United States and their purpose to shatter the country by internal hatreds.

If Communists worm their way into normally American groups and by disciplined effort under foreign direction present convert some Americans to their beliefs and manipulate the unsuspecting remainder, imposing on their honest hatred of Nazi-Fascism, the same method is used by the Nazis and Fascists. For every detached and outwardly innocent group of Americans who think they are serving some decent cause in an organization nominally devoted to Americanism and democracy, but are actually being used by Moscow. There is at least one similar group serving Hitler or Mussolini in the same way.

The sameness is evident again in the loud and angry enthusiasm of the Communists and their "fellow-travelers" for proposals made in Washington which have the aim of instituting here government controls which they pretend to detest in Berlin and Rome but endorse in Moscow. The Nazi-Fascist groups also have their "fellow-travelers" who disguise themselves as constitutional Americans and, like the Communists, look to a day when they may rise to power and change the constitution to suit their ends. And, like the Communists, they also have their innocent and deluded adherents of conscientious Americans who have been attracted to anti-American organizations professing to desire to save the country from Communism by resort to Nazi-Fascism.

In their dealings with this and other countries Germany and Italy have been guilty of the same thefts that they profess to resent in Moscow and which they describe as the cunning and contemptible inventions of the Communist. For it makes little difference whether foreign property be confiscated outright by revolution or first detained and gradually stolen by the invention of new laws. To the victim there is only a question of whether he prefers to be robbed with a blackjack or a gun, and to the slight credit of the Communists, if any distinction can be drawn, it must be allowed that they went straight to the point and said, "This is a stickup."

So far as the effect on this country is concerned, they leave no preference. Even when Communists do invade labor organizations and the WPA their constant effort is to widen their influence, disrupt and destroy, which, after all, is the purpose of the Nazis and Fascists in our midst.

In the matter of persecution abroad no Communist anywhere has any right to complain of anything that Hitler or Mussolini has done, and the Nazis and Fascists, having used the same brutal ways, are equally at a loss.

But in our own midst it is always true that no Communist or Fascist or any "fellow-traveler" of either side ever has any kind of intention, and anyone who finds himself unwilling to oppose both sides with equal fervor must be suspected of approving the evils common to both.

YOU AND YOUR Nation's Affairs

"Expand or Explode"

By ERNEST MINOR PATTERSON
President, American Academy of Political and Social Science

Not so many years ago, Mussolini was reported to have said that Italy must "expand or explode." He was also quoted as announcing:

"We are for Italy a squeezed into our narrow but adorable peninsula, with its too many mountains and its soil which cannot nourish so many. Hence it is obvious that the problem of Italian expansion in the world is a problem of life and death for the Italian race. I say expansion: expansion in every sense: moral, political, economic, demographic. It is estimated that the population of Italy is now nearly forty-three million. It is agreed that this is very large for a country so short of natural resources. Relief of pressure through emigration to other countries seems a reasonable idea, at least from the Italian viewpoint, although the proposal for moral and political expansion may be sharply challenged."

So we rub our eyes and wonder when we read an Associated Press dispatch from Rome quailing from the newspaper Popolo di Roma a suggestion that all of Italian race living abroad should return to Italy. This same paper calculates that in all foreign countries combined there are 28,000,000 Italians in race and blood and that if they should be "repatriated" the population of Italy would become 72,000,000.

Whether such an idea is seriously considered by the Italian government is another matter, but Mussolini on one occasion announced: "If Italy wants to count for something, it must appear on the threshold of the second half of the century with a population of not less than 60,000,000 inhabitants." Hitherto he has been urging a higher birth rate as the means for attaining this goal.

Presumably we Americans need not expect consistency in others since we are ourselves so inconsistent. But contradictory policies are not only apt to defeat each other.

THE BIOLOGICAL ASPECTS OF DEMOCRACY

Fellow Citizens:

A representative form of government, such as our democracy, based on the principles of government of the people, by the people and for the people requires a high average intelligence on the part of the people that constitute that government.

The first settlers who came to this continent from Europe had certain characteristics in common, characteristics that go to make up a great nation. They were courageous and intelligent (though not necessarily educated) or they would never have left their homes in the old world to face the perils of a long ocean voyage and settling in new homes hewn out of a wilderness on an unexplored continent. If they lived through the rigors of that voyage and the first years of getting settled, they not only sharpened their wits and heightened their courage but they added new traits; physical fitness; stamina.

Thus nature, through her laws of selection and survival of the fittest, played a big part in laying the foundation of a new nation, with new ideas of government, economics and living.

By the time they reached a stage of revolution from the Old World ideas they had developed their own ideals of government and economics and soon put them into effect in the form of a new type of government which the people were to run for themselves and by themselves; a system of government made by intelligent people, requiring intelligent people to run it.

Because of the high mental, physical and moral background this country soon caught up with and passed Europe in all the fields of science, industry and the arts.

As science and industry advanced and expanded and made life more complex, medicine stepped in and made it easier to live. No longer were the weak, the slow witted to be dropped by the wayside as civilization advanced.

In the name of humanity the doctor made it easier for the poverty stricken parent to have families, to be brought up on starvation diets and to live in slums. It was easier for parents, mentally below par to pass on their undesirable characteristics to posterity. The criminal was given every opportunity to bring up families into a life of crime. The bacterial diseases that had kept the race purified by weeding out the unfit were conquered one by one. But in their place were new diseases that developed the results of the civilization that were vanquished the germ.

All because of humanitarianism and idealists who sought to control man's destiny with little regard for the laws of nature, the weakling, the moron and the pauper were permitted and encouraged to breed and fill hospitals, asylums and prisons; to tear down the very civilization that made it possible for them to live.

We see the results today. At the time of the framing of the Constitution the percentage of undesirable was only five per cent. 150 years later, after the population had quadrupled, the percentage has increased to 20 per cent. 150 years hence, at the same rate, the percentage will be 80 per cent, a nation of weaklings, morons, and criminals.

Today the control of government is nearly in the hands of the ignorant masses who want to tear down our civilization; who want to destroy the system that gave them what they have; that made it possible for them to live and propagate.

Today we see the masses, swayed by smooth tongued, oily voiced politicians, clamoring for more and more power—not democracy.

Today we see the labor leaders and theorists, because of a personal hatred for our economic system or for some foreign dictator, trying to substitute the rule of labor, the rule of mass force, for the rule of enlightenment and representation.

Russia has shown us the results when the intelligent minority is destroyed. Mass rule fails and ends with dictatorship. In their ignorance they little realized that Communism requires a higher average of intelligence than even democracy.

If we keep to the path we are following there is little hope our democracy will survive; there is little hope that it won't go the same way the democracies of Europe have gone and are going; there is little hope that it won't fall into the hands of the masses completely and end with dictatorship.

Fellow Citizens:

Money and finance, from antiquity to the present time, have been a recurrent source of worry and trouble—mainly because all humanity has never at one time seen clearly, or understood its function. Periodic cycles in history have accredited greater percentages of the people with understanding its function than at other periods.

The rise and fall of nations are directly traceable to either their understanding, or misunderstanding, of its use and importance, and nations will continue to rise and fall until such time as the population of the world can fully understand and abide by the laws of money, as their present age presents it to them.

How many of you reading this article have ever thought of the money you handle every day? (If you're lucky!) What is it? Have you an understanding of what money is? Is it money? Definitely money as it is not, yet it is accepted as such. How issues it out into circulation, and why? Is it a representative value, or a concrete value, and a value of what? Does it represent gold, silver, or something else? How do the metallic pieces differ from the paper pieces, and why? Are either a true form of money?

Each of you could do worse than find the true answers to all of these questions, and then give them a little serious thought. Contrary to popular belief, the subject is not clouded in a deep dark mystery.

Because people as a whole cannot answer these questions, is the reason for the present economic chaotic condition of the world today. It isn't the first time it has happened, but let us hope that people will wake up to the fact that their money has been changed on them in the last quarter century, and that today, because of their ignorance of this fact, a handful of international bankers have gained control of nearly every nation on the face of the earth. They're not through yet. They work slowly, but surely, and the end of democracies may be seen, should the operations of

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT SPALLEN

WASHINGTON—Tip-off on the rabbit the Administration is counting on pulling out of its hat to save the President's $875,000,000 WPA budget from pruning was a failure of House leaders to force a record vote on the bill. Behind this seemingly hostile or incompetent action was some very cagey strategy.

The New Deal master minds had got wind that Senate Republican leaders were secretly uneasy over the $150,000,000 cut. Also, with the GOP minority in the Senate much smaller than in the House, the Administration figured there was a fighting chance to hold enough Senate Democrats in line to restore the slash.

So to keep the door open for the boys in the House to reverse themselves without embarrassment, in the event the Senate does approve the original budget, the New Deal leaders did not insist on a record vote. It was a long shot, but it was the only one left.

Senate Republican jitters are caused by two factors:

1. Fear of adverse public reaction to cutting relief in mid-winter. Privately GOP leaders report that they are being deluged with telegrams and letters from local officials and business men strongly advising against a WPA cut at this time.

2. Concern that if the WPA appropriation is cut and business conditions slump, Roosevelt will be able to alibi it by blaming the GOP. On the other hand, if $875,000,000 is voted and there is a recession anyway, he will have no defense.

The Republican chiefs admit they are caught in a dilemma. They are strongly for economy, but at the same time afraid that if the lid is clamped down too abruptly on government spending, there will be another economic nose-dive and they will get the bricksbats for it.

Older heads among them are counseling to lay off the $875,000,000 fund but to crack down hard on the regular WPA and other spending proposals in the spring.

NOTE—Senator Bill Borah has privately served notice on his GOP colleagues that he will not stand for a relief cut, and will fight such a move on the Senate floor.

Spanish War

Chief concession Mussolini wanted from Chamberlain at the Rome conference was British recognition of Franco's belligerent rights. This would have given Spanish insurgents the right to blockade Spanish ports, keeping out U. S. shipments of wheat, Cuban shipments of sugar, and other supplies for Barcelona's starving population. Thus it would also have meant early end of the civil war.

Before Chamberlain went to Rome he was given the United States position in unequivocal terms. The French also went to bat with emphasis. Both countries made it clear that they would not for one moment countenance a blockade against Loyalist Spain.

Sentiment in the State Department is more favorable than ever for lifting the Spanish embargo, although some timid officials want Congress to take the initiative.

NEWS ITEM: The U. S. mint shipped $160,000 in two-dollar bills to Los Angeles.

BEHIND THE NEWS: The two-dollar bill is the outcast of the currency family, scorned and rejected, treated with fear and superstition. But when the horse-hoofs beat, the "deuce" is in demand. It is the handiest bill to push across the counter in laying a bet on a horse. And in Los Angeles the racing season has just begun.

There is only one section of the country which maintains a steady year-round demand for two-dollar bills—the Boston Federal Reserve district, covering New England. "Boston" takes 50 per cent of all twos the mint produces.

Elsewhere, the demand fluctuates with the racing season. The mint knows, without reading the papers, when the races are on in Saratoga, in Havre de Grace, or in Hialeah.

The mint would like to circulate twos more widely. It would mean a big saving in cost, for one bill would serve for two. But they can't overcome the popular superstition that a "deuce" brings bad luck.

NOTE—Most of the twos that come back to the mint are nipped at the corner—evidence that the holder was afraid of the bill and tore a corner off to remove the curse.

Dodger

It was largely at the insistence of Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada that Professor Felix Frankfurter was called before the Judiciary subcommittee for questioning on his membership in the American Civil Liberties Union. But when the committee, shortly after this testimony, prepared to vote on the Supreme Court appointment, McCarran had disappeared.

Ordinarily no notice would have been taken of this. But after all Pat's clatter for Frankfurter's personal presence, the other Senators did not intend to let him escape going on record.

Clerks were sent to find him and tell him the committee was waiting for him to vote. After a hectic search, McCarran was finally located—in the Senate restaurant. But he refused to return.

So his colleagues, by this time highly amused, sent a clerk with a ballot for him to mark. Again the clerk came back empty handed. McCarran was not voting.

Later, when reporters began asking questions about his absence, Pat announced that he had been called away on business and had recorded himself as voting for Frankfurter's confirmation.

Time-Server

Vice President Jack Garner and RFC Chairman Jesse Jones are fellow Texans and old friends. Both also have the presidential bee. It was quite a jolt to Jesse, therefore, when Garner said to him the other day:

"Jesse, you ought to close up the RFC."

"Why?" demanded Jones, bridling. "What's wrong with the RFC?"

"Nothing wrong with it. I didn't say there was. But its work is finished and it ought to shut up shop. The emergency for which it was created is over and there's no need to keep up a big overhead."

"You may think the emergency is over," snorted Jones, "but we are still doing plenty of business." "Jesse," chuckled Garner, "you talk just like any other office-holder. You hate to get off the government payroll."

Western Democrats

No political big-shot ever got a more attentive ear from Administration generalists than Howard Costigan, executive secretary of the Washington Commonwealth Federation, during his Capital visit last week and no one ever talked colder turkey to them than the dynamic young crusader.

During his five-day stay he conferred with the President twice, once as a dinner guest; with Mrs. Roosevelt for more than an hour; with Cabinet members Farley, Ickes, Hopkins, Wallace and Murphy; brain-trusters Tom Corcoran and Ben Cohen; Senators Norris, LaFollette and Guffey; and a number of other party and congressional leaders. To all, Costigan hammered home three points:

1. That if the Democratic Party is to win in 1940 it must hold the West, and it can do that only by renominating Roosevelt or another unquestioned liberal acceptable to him. If the Democrats should name a reactionary standard-bearer there will be a third party in the West, and that will mean certain victory for the Republicans.

2. To win the West the Administration has got to (a) stop putting federal patronage in the hands of Old Guards, and (b) continue the LaFollette Civic Liberties committee in order to break up the spreading vigilante terrorism of the Associated Farmers.

3. The liberal conference of eleven Western States next June in Salt Lake City will launch a campaign for selecting Democratic convention delegates from these States pledged to renominate Roosevelt or vote for the man he designates as his choice.

Cold Turkey

In Costigan's first meeting with the President the latter was so impressed that he invited the colorful young Westerner to dinner so they could talk more leisurely. Costigan "laid it on the line" bluntly.

"We liberals can't talk left and walk right," he said. "An analysis of the Pacific Coast vote shows that the New Deal won there chiefly because it brought to the polls tens of thousands of voters who were neither Republicans nor Democrats. These voters were the real margin of victory."

"To hold them the New Deal has got to do the same thing its reactionary foes, in both the Republican and Democratic Parties, are doing, and that is organize right down in the precincts. That's the way elections are won. What we need are a half dozen Jim Farleys—machine politicians, if you like."

Roosevelt heartily approved Costigan's realistic views and assured him of full cooperation. He told the Commonwealth leader he would see that the Administration was prominently represented at the Salt Lake City conference.

Note—One non-governmental call that Costigan made was on Spanish Ambassador de los Rios, with whom he talked for several hours.

Friends of Bob Reynolds, usually shrewd Senator from North Carolina, are worried over his plan to lose a Senate speech praising Adolf Hitler.

The wise-cracking Reynolds took a trip to Germany last summer and was wined, dined and flattered by moguls of the Goering-Goebbels clique. He came back singing their praises and acclaiming Hitler as a great man.

SERIAL STORY

NO TIME TO MARRY

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, presenting her huge stack of bills to her attorney, Janet is advised that Wall Street has been jittery. Suddenly she wonders about her investments!

CHAPTER X

JANET left Mr. Bryant's office, hardly able to grasp the dimensions of the disaster that had overtaken her.

This quarter, it seemed, the A and S stock her father had left her, for years considered among the most reliable in the financial world, instead of paying the generous dividend on which she had learned to depend, had declared only a small fraction of it.

"Of course, it's bound to come back," Mr. Bryant reassured Janet, "when the general business picture clears up. But all that may take time; and it is even possible that the next dividend may be passed entirely."

In the meantime, it appeared, there was enough money in an emergency fund to pay Janet's immediate bills; and there were enough government bonds and other safe securities to furnish her with that Mr. Bryant playfully called "pin money" until matters adjusted themselves.

"Pin money!" Janet thought with bitter amusement.

"However," Mr. Bryant said as she got up to go, "it isn't so serious a calamity as it might be. You are marrying a successful young man. I am sure that Mr. Barstow is resourceful enough to be able to arrange some way of financing your house."

"Of course," Janet said stoutly. "It was all my idea in the first place—my making the payments, I mean."

But she was thinking, "How am I ever going to tell Lance?"

THE luncheon at Sylvia Grant's was an utter nightmare. There was a vacant chair where Cynthia was to have sat. Sylvia explained that Cyn had telephoned that morning to say that she and Mr. Benton were taking the noon plane to New York, and of course she couldn't come.

When Janet went in, Leslie Pugh was saying, "Well, Cynthia doesn't let any grass grow under her feet. She's hardly known Timothy Benton a month. I suppose she just couldn't bear to see cousin Janet—oh, hello, Janet! How sweet you're looking!"

Sylvia, seeing that Janet had heard, put in lightly, "For that matter, Janet isn't so slow, herself. Look at the way she grabbed Lance off right under Cynthia's nose."

"The way I—what?" Janet gasped.

"Do you mean to say you never heard that Lance and Cyn were thicker than thieves when you came home and walked off with him?" Leslie demanded.

Janet said, "Don't be funny!" And then stood for a moment, very still with the memory of Cynthia's stormy eyes when she had cried last night, "Why you little fool, you don't imagine it was Barney McKnight?"

Some one asked, "And what about Barney McKnight?" "Oh, Barney just happened to be in the way and caught Cyn on the bounce. You can't tell me that either of them took that very seriously," Sylvia said.

Leslie Pugh observed, fitting a cigarette into a jade holder, "Well, if you ask me, Cynthia's done the smart thing. Here Timothy Benton's been back in circulation for over a year, and it never occurred to any of the rest of us that he was to be had. At least, Cynthia'll have a roof this winter."

Then they were talking about some one—Janet didn't hear who—some one had "lost his shirt" in the stock market that week; and she remembered again that she would have to tell Lance about the payments on the house at supper that evening.

SHE had not intended to tell him until after they had eaten; but he opened the subject of the house almost immediately.

When she had told him everything—even about Aunt Mary's trust fund, he said, his face very white, "But, Janet, I don't understand. I always thought your money was—that is, do you mean, darling, that you have—nothing left?"

"Practically, Lance—in comparison with what we counted on."

"That man Bryant ought to be prosecuted."

"It isn't Mr. Bryant's fault, Lance. Father bought that stock. Every one has always supposed it was fool-proof. . . . And this sort of thing has been happening to people all around us lately."

"Don't I know it? We lost two big contracts today for that very reason—customers playing the market. But there should have been some way to avoid this."

"Eat your dinner, Lance. Your steak will be ruined."

"I—somehow I don't feel very hungry."

In some indefinable way he was making her feel as if that were all her fault. . . . Janet wasn't very hungry, either, but she said with a laugh, "Nevertheless, you're short-sighted to waste such a good life. If this sort of thing keeps on, we may wake up some day and find ourselves glad to dine on sinkers and coffee."

In a moment now Lance would be laughing, too—his usual whimsical, humorous self. You could always depend on Lance's sense of humor. . . . But he burst out irritably, "For God's sake, Janet, don't talk like that!"

"Why not? I think it's rather stimulating to toy with the idea that we might be worse off."

WHEN he did not speak, but continued to sit, brooding over his untouched dinner, Janet went on, hesitating a little, "Lance, on the way down I thought of something that might solve the difficulty for awhile. Aunt Mary isn't so hard hit as I am. All she needs, really, is a little help to be able to stay at the Breckenridge. What I have left will be practically enough for that. We had planned to go to the hotel till the house was finished, anyhow. Why can't we just take my room and Cynthia's and split expenses with Aunt Mary? We'd save a lot that way. Then you could go on paying for the house just as you planned before you got your cut."

He was looking at her as if he hardly heard her—as if, deep within himself, he was busy with his own rapid thoughts.

In a moment, however, he roused himself.

"And where would that leave us when the house was finished?" he demanded impatiently. "Exactly where we are now."

"But I thought—well, I thought that then Aunt Mary might come with us."

Aunt Mary would, she knew, however hardly she had protested the day before, if she knew her doing so would help.

"There are those two big guest rooms and bath—of course I couldn't have her crowded, Lance; she loves her things about her."

"But, Janet darling—he was obviously trying to control himself now, to be patient with her—"you know we'll have to do a lot of entertaining. I don't want to work for Hallowell and Benton forever. When the right kind of people see that house—live in the guest rooms over week-ends—they're going to see that they just have to have something like it. . . . You don't understand these things, darling, but an architect has to advertise if he ever expects to get anywhere on his own."

"Advertise?" Janet echoed faintly. . . . Was that why Lance had planned the white house with such loving care—as an advertisement? She had thought it was for her.

Lance was going on, his eyes carefully following a pattern he was tracing with a fork. "There's something I haven't told you yet, Janet."

CHEATING

Whenever a school child is found cheating I am inclined to blame someone other than him. I want to know who it is that made him feel that failing in his subject was a worse crime than cheating to succeed. There is always such a person, and it is he who should be punished, not the child.

One morning during a Regent's examination, the teacher saw one of the girls reach into her sleeve and pull out a slip of paper. The child's eye, shook her head, and the hand was withdrawn. The tears began slipping down the child's face and the teacher, troubled about it all, went to her and said, "Just dry your tears and go on bravely. You can take this test without cheating. You know this work well. Don't be afraid. Just go ahead."

After a few minutes the child gathered herself together and did her work, passing without a high rating, but creditably. When she got her returns she broke down again, and when the teacher asked her what was wrong she said, "All my marks are good except this one. They are all over ninety, but this one is eighty-two. My father will be so angry. I am afraid to go home."

Father's stupid insistence on high marks, which he never got by the way, was threatening to destroy his child's success, even her character.

Once a teacher was ill for some months and had to be replaced by a substitute. The teacher was known as strict, one who got the work out of children, or knew why. The first test the substitute gave the class showed great similarity in the papers. A mistake was a common mistake, all had it; a correct answer was about identical with all others. The teacher talked to a few of the children and they told her that they helped each other out. "If we didn't she would kill us for getting bad marks. She bawls us out something awful and makes us stay in every day for months if we make a mistake."

The only meaning a mark has is in the actual power the knowledge gained has stored in the child's mind. If nothing was gained, if no personal accomplishment was made, the mark has no meaning whatever. Cheating, snatching marks, is about the most useless gesture a pupil can make, and when older people, who ought to know better, drive children to such futile, harmful actions, they ought to be ashamed of themselves for harming helpless youngsters.

It is not possible to do away with marks. The work a child does is measured by the world's opinion. Judgment will be passed on it in any case. Recognition of good work is a stimulant to better work, and the pointing out of Ten economists would require two weeks to work out what this arbitrary price fixing measure might mean, and then they would probably be wrong. Roughly, however, the downtown farm economists figure it would bring an 80 per cent increase in prices, which would certainly satisfy the farmers—that is, if the consumers did not revolt.

The bill says prices should be fixed on this basis: (1) by giving the farmer a wage corresponding to that of the industrial worker, whose wage averages over $23 per week, and (2) by computing the value of his investment so as to furnish him a five to six per cent return.

On this basis of latest compiled figures (1936) this would mean doubling the farmers' income of approximately $716 per acre to $1400. To do this wholesale prices would have to go up at least 80 per cent, and detail no less than 40 per cent.

Using the 1936 figures to work out the machinations of the bill you will find, the result would be:

Wheat $1.85 per bushel (now 65 cents).

Cotton 22 cents per pound (now 8 cents).

Oats 77 cents per bushel (now 25 cents).

Corn 81 cents per bushel (now 50 cents).

Cost of meat, bread and clothing under the existing wage level would certainly cause the industrial workers some concern, and if his wage went up, these prices would be juggled upward further. Grain and cotton exchanges would be abolished and all who work for them would be thrown among the unemployed. Every processor, miller, shipper, ginners would be licensed by the government. The sky would literally be the limit on production. The old gin bootlegger, chased out of business by prohibition repeal, might find a lucrative field in bootlegging a loaf of bread or undistilled corn. Problem of enforcement would certainly be paramount.

These prospects will be presented in opposition to the bill at coming congressional hearings. It is, therefore, doubtful that the measure will come as close to passing as it did last year under another name.

Forum Members Are Guests

ORANGE, Jan. 19. — Misses Hattie Arends and Helen Meyer were dinner hostesses last night to members of the Young World's forum at the home of Miss Edna Bargsten, 237 North Orange street. Chinese checkers and rummy made the evening's pastime. Miss Lilah Erbentraut will be hostess February 7.

Present were Misses Agnes Adams, Helen Kobler, Elsie Kolkhorst, Eileen McCollum, Margaret Westover, and Ruth Stoner, of Orange; Mrs. Hazel Connelly, Miss Catherine Frankforter, Mrs. Alice Johnson and Mrs. Vera Rhinard, all of Santa Ana, and the hostesses.

SUDBROOK FUNERAL

ORANGE, Jan. 19.—Last rites for Frank Sudbrook, 83, who passed away Monday at his home, 138 North Grand street, were held yesterday afternoon at the Coffey Funeral home with the Rev. Arthur T. Hobson, pastor of First Methodist church officiating.

Mrs. Ruth Alden sang "Haven of Rest" and "No Night There" accompanied by Mrs. Margaretson.
